Thieu Outlines Conditions For Cease-Fire In Vietnam

Leader Asserts Strongest Position Before Any Pact

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said tonight there could be a cease-fire in Vietnam very quickly if Hanoi accepted certain stiff conditions, and that "I've issued orders we should be in the very strongest position possible for a cease-fire."

He said for there to be a cease-fire the North Vietnamese must withdraw their troops from South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia and that there must be international supervision of such a truce by the Soviet Union and China. He again rejected Communist proposals for a coalition government.

"The Communists have made their booby-trap proposal for peace to Dr. (Henry A.) Kissinger in Paris," Thieu said. "He is aware of this. The Americans understand this ploy of the Communists."

Kissinger ended four days of talks with Thieu on Monday and flew back to Washington.

"There could be a cease-fire very quickly," Thieu said in a nationwide radio and television speech. "But the Communists must guarantee they will restrict their fighting forces to North Vietnam. We have nothing to fear from a ceasefire as long as they'll guarantee they'll do that.

"Between now and an eventual election (Thieu did not clarify whether he meant the U.S. election or a South Vietnamese election) if there's a call for a cease-fire I'll go along with it because I'm sure we're in a very strong position." He said South Vietnam would not allow anyone to impose a cease-fire on it.

"Will the United States continue the bombing and blockade? Because I don't think North Vietnam can put up with it for many more months. They'll be suing for peace.

"Even if cynics say fighting will break out again in two, three or five years, if they give their guarantee for a cease-fire, we're not worried about that because we're in such a strong position."

Thieu said, "Whether there is a cease-fire or not, what will prevail here will be the rule of law and not the wishy-washy desire of the Communist cadres.

"...I've issued orders we should be in the very strongest position possible for a cease-fire...but at this point there's still war...we have to continue fighting to wipe out the Communists. There's no change."

Thieu said, "Reports throughout the world say Thieu is the obstacle to peace in South Vietnam. This has been orchestrated by the Communists throughout the world. It has been propagandized in the press. I am willing to sacrifice myself, my position, anything, if peace can be brought toVietnam.

"Although I am willing to sacrifice myself and my position, I was put here by popular votes.

"If I can have any influence which will preserve South Vietnam as an entity, I will do it, but I will never sacrifice myself to the schemes of the Communists... Anyone who says I am

Gun Edict Succeeds In Manila

MANILA (UPI)—Military authorities Tuesday were flooded with an arsenal of unlicensed and high-powered firearms as Filipinos rushed to beat a martial law deadline on the possession of unauthorized weapons.

Constabulary police said an estimated 100,000 weapons—ranging from homemade types to machineguns and grenade launchers—had been turned in at various military collection centers in the Philippines.

Spokesmen said there were enough weapons to equip 10 full-sized Philippine army divisions and would have taken a century to collect under normal conditions.

"They're pouring in without letup during the day and up to this evening," said Constabulary Lt. Col. Reynaldo San Gabriel.

"Constabulary headquarters is filled with people trying to beat the deadline and the scene is like what you see when taxpayers try to beat the deadline for filing income tax returns," he said.

The weapons roundup was ordered by President Ferdinand E. Marcos under his martial law proclamation of Sept. 23 in an attempt to disarm all suspected subversives, crime syndicates and political warlords who have private armies.

The deadline set for the surrender, without penalty, of all unlicensed firearms and all licensed but high-powered firearms larger than .45 caliber pistols was set for midnight Wednesday.

Brig. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, Constabulary chief and a graduate of West Point, said those suspected of hoarding firearms caches beyond the deadline would be subjected to house searches and arrest if found violating the law.

According to Ramos, a 26-hour uprising by an estimated 400 rebels in the predominantly Moslem city of Marawi in the southern Philippines during the weekend was attributed in part to the refusal by the insurgents to turn in their weapons. He said the uprising was the first armed resistance to the martial law decree.

The uprising failed although the insurgents captured and controlled the Marawi radio station for 12 hours before they were repelled, Ramos said. Officials said more than 70 persons, including 10 civilians and six government soldiers, were killed in the violence.

Sidney E. Easton, an Englishman serving as consultant to a U.N. world food program project in Marawi's Mindanao State University and who witnessed the abortive uprising, said a number of Filipino professors, university staff members and their famiilies were missing and may have been taken hostage by the fleeing black-shirted rebels.

ROBINSON DIES — Jackie Robinson, 53, who broke major league baseball's color barrier in 1947 and played his way into the Hall of Fame, died this morning in Stamford, Conn., of an apparent heart attack. Kissinger Briefs Nixon On Saigon

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon and his national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, met today for talks on the Saigon trip by Kissinger which he said produced "some progress" toward peace.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers also attended the second Nixon-Kissinger meeting in less than 12 hours.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, in a broadcast speech following his four days of meetings with Kissinger, sounded a tough line on his terms for peace. He said he had not agreed to any ceasefire, and that any such arrangement would be unacceptable to him without guarantees by Moscow and Peking.

Thieu also vetoed once again any plan for a coalition government that would include elements of the Viet Cong.

Whether by orders from Washington or because of bad weather, U.S. bombing of North Vietnam was reported curtailed. No B52 raiders hit the North for the first time in 18 days and strikes by Navy and Air Force fighter-bombers were reported less than normal.

Newsmen were admitted to the White House Oval Office briefly as the meeting by Nixon with Kissinger and Rogers began. Nixon and Rogers sat in gold colored arm chairs, with Kissinger next to them on a couch. None of the whispered conversation among the three men could be heard.

The meeting lasted an hour, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said. He refused to characterize Kissinger's report to the President, beyond repeating Kissinger's own assessment that "some progress" had been made in his Saigon and Paris talks.

Ziegler also refused to comment on Thieu's speech. And when asked if Nixon had ordered a curtailment of the bombing, he said bombing was a Pentagon operational matter.

The President and Kissinger met late Monday night following Kissinger's return from Vietnam and Nixon's return from a campaign trip to the heavily-Republican suburbs on New York's Long Island. The White House would provide no details on the substance of their talks.

Kissinger told newsmen at Andrews Air Force Base his talks resulted in "some progress" toward ending the war. He declined to elaborate.

U.S. Curtails Raids Due To Bad Weather

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command today reported a curtailment of air raids over North Vietnam, but American military sources said they were more inclined to attribute the cutback to bad weather including thunderstorms rather than to political motives.

There were persistent rumors in Saigon that the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam had been ordered curtailed during the current intensive period in peace negotiations, but the U.S. command spokesman had no official comment on this. They emphasized that some of the strikes flown were in the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

Although no B52 strikes were reported over North Vietnam for the first time in 18 days, more than 100 of the big bombers based in Thailand and Guam flew a record 36 missions over South Vietnam in the 24 hours ending at noon today, indicating no letup in the war effort.

The U.S. Command reported only 120 strikes flown against North Vietnam by jet fighter-bombers Monday although the daily number of raids usually runs around the 300 mark. A spokesman said bad weather was "possibly a factor" in cutting back the air strikes.

Military sources said they could not speculate on the possibility of a cutback in air-strikes at a time when peace negotiations were believed to be in a critical stage but "there is no information that would lead one to that conclusion" available at U.S. Command headquarters.

The 120 fighter-bomber strikes Monday was far from any record low during a bombing campaign. Typhoon winds and rains on Sept. 4 kept missions to just 60 and tha strikes hit a low of 120 three weeks ago before soaring up to a near record 350. It was the second consecutive day that the com-

NOSTALGIC CEREMONY

Sparse Vets Day Turnout

By MARY LEYDECKER

The Doughboy statue held a bright yellow flower in his hand, the Tomales High School band made it all the way through the national anthem and the Girl Scouts' flag was fine after minor repairs.

There were far more people, however, whizzing by on Highway 101 than the few dozen who gathered yesterday at the Marin Civic Center to watch the county's only observation of Veterans Day.

For those who came, the ceremonies at the foot of the Doughboy statue and the short march from the Veterans' Memorial Building were scenes of nostalgia, even though the holiday, once called Armistice Day, had landed strangely on Oct. 23.

The veterans were getting older, and the only man who looked as if he might have served in Vietnam stood quietly by — his arm around a pretty girl — wearing a hat bearing a Purple Heart ribbon on his head.

The Girl Scouts marched in step — the Boy Scouts did not. The girls, though, had a little trouble with their flag; it slid down its staff but was soon restored.

The Tomales High band provided fine drumming for the marching but lent undoubtedly unintentional support to the move to have something easier than the "Star Spangled Banner" as the national anthem.

Speaker of the day was Lt. Col. Thomas Jenkin, commander of an Army reserve unit, who asked the rhetorical question, "Should we be looking to the past?"

He answered himself with the statement that "we might get proper direction for the future" by a study of the past.

While the colonel went on to make a strong pitch for prepared reserve units to back up the volunteer Army, a Marine private, standing at attention with his color guard, fainted and dropped to the ground, his gun beside him.

Soon he was followed by two members of the Novato Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps drill team, who, according to a longtime participant in such affairs, probably hadn't learned the trick of not locking their knees.

Made of sturdier stuff were two WACs, who carried flags for the 91st Division color guard — a clever nod to women's lib on the part of their male companions, an onlooker observed.

"Those flags are heavy," he commented.

The few who turned out for the occasion on an idyllic fall afternoon, included in addition to children, mothers and dogs, a sprinkling of politicians and their supporters.

A woman spectator, clad in immaculate white pants, carefully spread out literature favoring a congressional candidate before taking her seat on the ground.

The colonel wound up his talk by noting that those present "have not forgotten." The Marine, who had collapsed a second time, sheepishly rejoined his color guard. And the occasion was termed a "huge success."

Supervisors Warned Of Heavy Quake Damage

Maps predicting heavy damage and possibly death in Marin from future Bay Area earthquakes, were shown to the Marin County Board of Supervisors today.

A jolt as strong as the 1906 San Francisco earthquake would probably cause earth movements along the San Andreas Fault from Golden Gate to Tomales Bay, according to officials from the state Office of Emergency Services.

Heavy structural damage and possible fatalities would occur in a band a few miles each side of the fault line. The entire county would feel the shock and might suffer some damage, county supervisors were told.

The state officials were in Marin today to report progress on a nine-county Bay Area study for earthquake disaster preparedness.

They asked that the board allow Frank E. Kirby, Marin's

'10,000 Could Die' If Big Quake Hits Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More than 10,000 persons might be killed if the Bay Area were struck by an earthquake as severe as the 1906 quake along the San Andreas Fault, the chairman of the state Legislature's Joint Committee on Seismic Safety warned today.

"One-half of our hospitals would be out of commission and unable to care for casualties. Should one of the many dams above populated areas fail under this strong shaking, that number of deaths could increase by two or three times," said state Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose.

Alquist's committee began a public hearing this morning on the effects of earthquakes on high-rise structures in San Francisco. He said he hoped the Legislature would set standards for all public buildings, making them safer in the event of a temblor.

"Hopefully these guidelines will be accepted by private industry as well," he added.

Alquist said increasing urbanization has made California more vulnerable to earthquake damage. He said the San Fernando earthquake in 1971 showed that the state's complex freeway systems were not designed to resist strong shaking.

Many high-rise buildings 10 to 25 miles from the center of the earthquake experienced considerable damage, he added.

George Gates, a consultant geologist, told the committee there's no question that a severe earthquake will occur in San Francisco in the future. "It could be as severe as the 1906 earthquake, or it could have a lot of smaller earthquakes before one that severe," he said.

Japanese Minister Confers In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira met Monday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in an "atmosphere of openness and mutual understanding" to discuss questions of Toyko-Moscow relations and international problems, the Tass news agency said.

Ohira arrived Saturday on an official visit to explain Japan's new relationship with China.

Specialist Joins Boggs Plane Hunt

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —The Air Force's top search and rescue specialist was on the scene today as the hunt for a missing plane carrying House Majority Leader Hale Boggs and three other men went into its ninth day.

Brig. Gen. Frank Everest, commander of the Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Service headquartered at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., arrived Monday with two aides. An Air Force statement said the three officers were "to observe the search operations."

Everest has flown several experimental rocket planes to unofficial speed and altitude records. He once flew the X2 rocket plane to a speed of 1,957 miles an hour.

Bad weather hampered the search for Boggs again Monday, grounding most of the 50 planes slated to fly, but rescue workers said the hunt would continue "indefinitely."

Walkout Ends

NEW YORK (UPI) — Striking workers at REA Express ended a four day walkout today and returned to the job in compliance with a federal back-to-work order.

Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld issued a 10-day injunction against the strike last night after 15,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks voted to reject the company's latest contract offer.

BRAC members walked out Friday after negotiations for a new contract broke down. The strike held up delivery of an estimated 70,500 packages a day.

Death Toll

ATHENS (UPI) — The Athens coroner said today the death toll from the Olympic Airways airliner which crashed into the sea Saturday night was higher than the 34 originally announced.

"I believe that the death toll is 37," Dimitrios Kapsaskis, the Athens coroner, told UPI.

Futile Sessions

SEOUL (UPI) — Red Cross delegations from South and North Korea, seeking ways to reunite divided families, held two futile sessions today in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang. The North said the South's anti-Communist posture was hampering progress.

It was the third Red Cross meeting between the two halves of the divided land. The goal of the talks is to help separated persons in the South and the North —estimated at 10 million persons — communicate and eventually reunite.

7 Inmates Escape

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seven inmates who worked about a week sawing through heavy steel bars at the Manhattan House of Detention for Men escaped yesterday by climbing down a 60-foot rope of sheets from a fourth floor window.

It was the first successful escape from the institution, better known as the Tombs, since the present building opened in 1941.

The seven apparently had been sneaking out of their cells and into a dining area for at least a week to saw through four steel bars.

They escaped while breakfast was being served. One by one, they slipped away from the tables to the rear of the dining area, apparently unnoticed by three guards on an elevated platform, authorities said.

Angry Blacks

DALLAS (UPI) — Blacks angered over the third shooting in 12 days of a black man by police marched on city hall late yesterday, vowing to free their people from "racist Dallas police."

Riot troops, state police, city police and county sheriffs were summoned to the scene but the crowd left peacefully after less than half an hour of singing, chanting and speech-making on the steps of the barricadedcity hall. There were no arrests.

Black leaders estimated their numbers at more than 400, but police estimated the crowd at between 150 and 200. The groip marched 40 blocks to the downtown city hall from a church where they had been holding a meeting.

Allowed To Leave

MOSCOW (UPI) — At least 175 Jewish families and individuals, including an activist married to a Cincinnati girl, have been told over the past six days that they can go tg Israel without paying an education tax widely assailed abroad, Jewish sources said today.

Among the latest 36 families or individuals to receive exit visas although not reimbursing the state for their free higher education were three political activists — Gavriel Shapiro, Roman Rutman and Mikhail Kliachkin.

Shapiro, 27, married Judy Beth Silver of Cincinnati this summer during an Orthodox ceremony in his parents' Moscow apartment.

When his wife's tourist visa expired and she returned to the U.S., Shapiro was arrested and tried for evading military training. Found guilty, he was sentenced to a year's "corrective labor" — a manual job allowing him his freedom within Moscow.

Ready To Talk

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The 15 allies of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization told Moscow today they are ready to start talks next month on preparing a European security conference.

The Western agreement, reached yesterday by the NATO Council, came only after the Russians agreed to a similar meeting in January to prepare talks on East-West troop withdrawals from Central Europe — or Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions (MBFR), as the talks are called in diplomatic jargon.

British 'Disgusted'

BELFAST (UPI) — British officers said today they were disgusted at the "animals" who use young children to shelter them from army gunfire.

A gunman spotted yesterday by a British patrol in the Roman Catholic New Lodge Road area of Belfast grabbed a 7-year-old boy and, using him as a shield, fired four shots at soldiers before escaping.

Bill Boosts Benefits For GIs In School

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon signed today legislation to boost educational benefits for Vietnam-era veterans by $2.5 billion over the next five years.

The measure will swell grants to eligible former servicemen to continue their full-time schooling by up to 38 per cent, retroactive to Sept. 1.

The estimated first-year cost of the program was $490 million.

Nixon signed the measure into law a day after his Democratic presidential opponent, Sen. George S. McGovern, criticized his economic policies for leaving 300,000 Vietnam veterans unemployed.

The new educational benefit schedule calls for payments to a single veteran to increase from $175 per month to $220, a hike of nearly 26 per cent.

For a married veteran, the increase would be 27 per cent, from $205 to $261 a month; if married with one child, nearly 29 per cent from $230 to $298; with an extra $18 a month for each additional child.

In addition, the measure provides for benefits to be paid one month in advance, instead of at the end of the month.

Checks going out will contain both October and November allotments, plus the extra September money if the veteran was in school that month.

'Boss Of Bosses' Out Of Hospital

NEW YORK (UPI) — Carlo Gambino, 72, alleged "boss of all bosses" of the New York Mafia, has been released from Columbus Hospital where he spent three weeks for treatment of a heart condition, the hospital revealed Monday.

The hospital said Gambino was released Saturday but declined to give any details. Gambino was admitted to the hospital Sept. 30 suffering what was described as a "coronary insufficiency."

The elderly underworld czar had used his heart problems in successfully battling government extradition attempts for more than a decade.

Firemen worked to put out fires which erupted when about 40 cars collided in dense fog yesterday on the Riverside Freeway between Riverside and Corona. One person died and 20 others were injured in the 7 a.m. chain-reaction pileup, which blocked the freeway for hours.

Skyjackers Surrender For Countrymen

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI)— Four hijackers of a Turkish airliner carrying 80 persons met newsmen Monday locked arm in arm with some of their former hostages. They said they ended a 38-hour airport seige out of respect for their countrymen.

"We questioned all of the passengers," one gunman said, "and we found that the majority were working people. So we decided not to turn our guns against these people..."

The four threatened to blow up themselves, the Turkish Airways Boeing 707 they commandeered Sunday, 67 passengers and nine crew members unless Turkey freed 13 imprisoned left-wingers and carried out political and social reforms.

The Turkish government refused and the four men finally surrendered to Bulgarian authorities. Turkish authorities said two of the four, all aged in their 20s, were anarchists sought on murder charges.

The men appeared at a news conference with some of the hostages to explain why they gave up. The hostages did not say anything as the gunmen embraced and kissed some of them in what one observer said looked like a family reunion.

During a day of extended deadlines—originally, the hijackers said they would blow up the plane and their hostages at 6 a.m. EDT Monday—12 hostages were freed "for health reasons."

Two of the 12 were shot and wounded when the four men seized the plane on a domestic flight from Istanbul to Ankara and forced its crew to fly them to Sofia.

Shortly after the four men gave up, the 64 passengers remaining on board the plane filed wearily from the jetliner and walked through a cold wind to the airport terminal building. None discussed the hijackiing and as soon as they could, they left the news conference to drink hot coffee.

"With our action," one of the four said, "we pulled down the mask of the Fascist Turkish government, which did not tell the Turkish people of our demands and endangered the lives of the passengers."

Bulgarian authorities did not say what they intended to do with the hijackers, who spent the night under guard at the Sofia airport. In an earlier similar incident, Bulgaria allowed Turkish hijackers to remain in political asylum.

Tornadoes occur more often in the U.S. than anywhere else in the world, says National Geographic.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

Nixon, McGovern Funding Committees In The Red

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Finance Committee to Re-elect the President has spent more than $22.5 million since April and is slightly in the red going into the final two weeks of the presidential campaign, reports filed today show.

The campaign of the Democratic presidential candidate, George McGovern, also is running in the red but by a much heftier margin of about $2.78 million.

The campaign balances are reflected in reports to the General Accounting Office, required under a new federal elections law that went into effect April 7.

Although due yesterday, covering the period Sept. 1 through Oct. 16, some reports apparently were delayed by the Veterans Day holiday and not all are in.

However, the flagship committees for President Nixon — The Finance Committee to Re-elect the President and McGovern for President, Inc. — were received on time although only balances and not contributors were available early today for McGovern.

Nixon's Finance Committee reported contributions, loans and transfers from its numerous satellite committees of $20.2 million since April 7. The Nixon people raised more than $10 million in the pre-April 7 period but, saying they would abide by the letter of the law, have declined to disclose where they got it or how they spent it.

The Nixon report lists expenditures since April 7 of $22.5 million. The committee said it had $514,985 cash on hand as of Oct. 16; it was owed $1 million as of that date, and had debts of $1.6 million.

In the period between Sept. 1 and Oct. 16, the report of the committee said, it collected about $9 million and had spent some $9.5 million.

This compares with $8.9 million that the McGovern committee reports raising — and $9.05 million it reports spending in the Sept. 1 to Oct. 16 period.

McGovern's top committee reports having raised $13.4 million; says it is short $107,204, cash on hand; is owed $125,027, and has debts of $2.98 million.

Mrs. McGovern To Hit Trail Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eleanor McGovern will stage a comeback on the campaign trail Friday when she appears as the star attraction at a political rally at Madison Square Garden.

Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern announced that his wife would be making her first campaign appearance in New York after recuperating from what he called "total exhaustion."

Egypt Seeking Help To Restore Prestige

CAIRO (UPI)—Egypt today urged all countries of the world, particularly the big powers, to help the United Nations as a body to put an end to Israeli occupation of Arab lands.

The call came in a Foreign Ministry statement marking the United Nations' 27th birthday today.

At the same time, the newspaper Al Akhbar accused the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC), of "joining enemy news media in their attempts to undermine Egypt's domestic nront by concocting imaginary stories suggesting instability in the country."

In a front page article, Al Akhbar editor Moussa Sabri cited the BBC reports on Saturday about an abortive coup attempt in Egypt in which 200 to 300 army officers were alleged to have been arrested.

Government sources said this was a distorted version of a minor incident involving a mentally unbalanced army captain who led three armored cars to a mosque and harangued worshipers with a call for immediate war against Israel.

Al Akhbar's article was the first local disclosure of the mosque incident which took place Thursday, Oct. 12.

The Foreign Ministry statement said "Egypt appeals to all countries to join in collective efforts to enable the United Nations to restore its prestige and authority. Silence and failure to act on the part of these countries would only serve to encourage the policy of using force."

Singling out the big powers as holding special responsibilities and duties in this respect, the statement said "The Israeli aggressions on the territories of three U.N. member states (Egypt, Jordan and Syria) and on the Palestinian people is a living incarnation of the U.N. dilemma in all its dimensions.

"Parallal with this is the role the United Nations should play in the face of this physical aggression perpetrated by a country who is still a member of the world body."

Political observers noted the statement reflected Egypt's desire to give priority to a peaceful settlement of the Middle East crisis within the framework of the United Nations and with the help of the big powers.

Ceremony Draws Demo's Blast

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Julie Nixon Eisenhower appeared today with the state's Republican leaders at a federal information center dedication ceremony that a Democratic congressman branded as a "blatant political exercise."

The center, which occupies a small lobby space in the building, is one of 36 such facilities to be opened in federal buildings across the country.

Rep. John Moss of Sacramento called the ceremony a waste of taxpayers' money and said he would ask the federal General Services Administration (GSA) for a "report on the total cost of the dedication of this micro-facility."

French Couple Is Plagued By 'Ridiculous' Surname

By TAKASHI OKA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PARIS — Which means more to an adopted child, the love of his parents or the bearing of a "ridiculous" surname? The plight of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Trognon, who have adopted a three-year-old boy and wish to give him their surname, has roused public indignation against a judge who has found them qualified in every way to be the boy's parents, except for the fact that their surname means "core" (as of an apple), "stump" (as of a cabbage), and hence, in general, a term of endearment for someone who is tiny.

Philippe B. came to the Trognons from a public orphanage in 1970, when he was a baby. Mr. Trognon works for Aerospatiale, the French national company associated with the British in producing the Concorde supersonic plane.

Mrs. Trognon is an adult-education worker. The couple live in the pleasant little suburban town of Mee-sur-Seine. They had to undergo a long, laborious process of examinations and submissions of documents before the local council of wards of the state authorized them to take in — at first for six months only — little Phillippe.

Delighted, the Trognons gave Phillippe his own room, filled with teddy bears and other fluffy animals, and lavished on him all their parental affection. On Feb. 26 this year, they were finally authorized to permanently adopt Phillippe.

One last formality remained. The couple applied to the civil court of Melun to have Phillippe's surname legally changed to Trognon. The state prospecutor of Melun supported their plea.

But the judge thought otherwise. He did not doubt that "morally and materially, the full adoption of Phillippe B. by the couple Trognon would be in the child's interest."

Nevertheless, the judge continued, changing the child's surname to the "ridiculous name of Trognon" would certainly be to his disadvantage.

Thunderstruck, the parents appealed to the court of appeals in Paris and fired off letters expressing indignation to President Pompidou and to Marie-Madeleine Dienesch, Secretary of State for Public Health and Social Affairs. The mass-circulation daily France-Soir and the weeklies Express and Le Nouvel Observateur took up the Trognons' cause.

"Of course my brothers, my sisters, and myself were teased at school," said Mr. Trognon. "But it wasn't bad-humor teasing. None of us were ever traumatized by it."

Letters poured in to the Trognons. No one upheld the judge, who defiantly declared, "I am proud of my intransigence." It turned out, among other things, that the judge had 11 children and that he had gone on television to argue against a proposed law giving equal rights to children of legitimate and illegitimate birth.

The court of appeals will convene on Sept. 16, and the Ministry of Justice says that, given the public interest in the case, the Trognon affair will certainly be one of the earliest to be heard.

Meanwhile, Paris-Match has dug up an Association of Handicapped Surnames, headquartered in the northern town of Lens, which dispenses advice on how legally to change unwanted names.

The association was founded by Jean-Louis Meudesoif (die of thirst), and includes among its members people with surnames signifying goat, cows' legs, cemetery, and assassin.

But names in France, everywhere else, are highly individual affairs, and among surnames cherished by their holders are poetic fantasies like Lafleur-despoisverts (flower of green peas).

Mr. Trognon says that if all else fails, and if changing his own surname is the only way to keep Philippe, he is willing to do so. But all of France seems to be rooting in his favor and hoping for proof from the court of appeals that, though justice may be blindfolded, it is not blind.

Driver Evades Police But Finally Caught

A 19-year-old San Rafael resident evaded seven patrol cars manned by Sausalito police, county sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrolmen after a chase through Southern Marin Sunday morning which reached speeds of 100 miles per hour.

The driver, Jeffrey Brian Abbett, of 9 Deer Park, lost his pursuers on Muir Woods Road, but later was arrested by San Rafael police at Mission and Grand Avenues.

According to Sausalito police, Abbett's car was seen shortly after midnight speeding southbound on Bridgeway in Sausalito with another car beside it. Policemen took chase and one of the cars pulled over, but Abbett sped away and began weaving through the darkened streets of downtown Sausalito.

He drove back onto Bridgeway and headed north to Highway 101. According to police, he passed cars along Bridgeway in the opposite lanes, dodged traffic and hit speeds up to 100 miles per hour.

The chase continued through Tamalpais Valley, Mill Valley and onto Shoreline Highway until Abbett lost all seven patrol cars on Muir Woods Road.

His car was later stopped by San Rafael police officers who had been given Abbett's license plate number.

William T. Bagley Jr., son of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was a passenger in Abbett's car but was not arrested.

Abbett was arrested on suspicion of reckless driving, evading arrest and failure to yield to arrest. He was booked into Marin County Jail and released on his promise to appear Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

THIEU

an obstacle to peace in Southeast Asia is getting into the scheme of the Communists."

Toward the end of his speech Thieu said, "I've told you our allies will never betray us and we'll never betray them. Anyone who says this is not true is a Communist dupe."

Kissinger reported to President Nixon today on the results of his talks with the Communists in Paris and Thieu in Saigon.

"We would welcome a just peace and a cease-fire," Thieu said in his two-hour speech, the longest he has made in his five years as president. "This would stop our suffering and help our country to develop. But when peace or a cease-fire comes it will be our victory, not a victory for the Communists."

Thieu said to all intents and purposes South Vietnam has already won the battlefield war and the North Vietnamese "still hope they can win a victory by defeating our Allies in propaganda warfare. On that basis, we can never accept a cease-fire."

He said the Communists want a cease-fire to rebuild their forces since "they are going to become increasingly weak and lose to us militarily." Six months after a cease-fire, he said, the Communists would attack again—"We have had experience with the Communists; we have learned we cannot trust them."

Thieu said with sufficient international guarantees he would accept a cease-fire at any time but indicated no such guarantees had been received. He specified these guarantees must come from the Soviet Union and China, the chief backers of Hanoi in the long years of war.

"We are not worried (about a cease-fire) because we are in such a strong position," he said.

Thieu blasted the North Vietnamese as "invaders" and the Viet Cong, or National Liberation Front, as a puppet of North Vietnam."

"The North Vietnamese have nothing to do with this (situation in South Vietnam)," Thieu said. "But still North Vietnam continues scheming to take over the NLF."

Thieu pledged to free the countryside of Communist troops.

"No Communists who disrupt the countryside can be tolerated," he said. "Every Communist ploy to disrupt the countryside is going to be ruined."

cast for today, but a spokesman said "we may on Wednesday have an improvement in the weather—hopefully we will."

Boggs, 58, was on a campaign swing with freshman Democratic Rep. Nick Begich, 40, his aide, Russell Brown, and pilot Don E. Jonz when their twin-engine Cessna vanished on a flight from Anchorage to Juneau last Monday.

"If they survived the crash, I feel their chances are still very good," said Air Force Maj. Henry Stoecker, spokesman for the search headquarters at Elmendorf Air Force Base.

"I don't know how soon, but I think we will find the plane."

Sgt. Robert Young, a veteran rescue worker, said everyone in the search operation was still confident that the plane will be found and that there was a good chance of survivors.

"We feel the weather has been good and there would be no problem to their survival," he said.

Young said a maximum effort would "go on until the rescue coordination center feels it has searched every possible place —it is impossible now to tell how long that will take."

Planes have logged 1,536 hours in the search and combed 136,000 square miles.

Bomb Threatens DMV Office

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — Four sticks of dynamite wired to a detonator were found by police Monday outside the state Department of Motor Vehicles office.

Police learned of the bomb from a telephone operator who got a call warning that the explosive device had been planted. Demolition experts were unable to defuse the bomb and so exploded it in a safe area.

Earlier in the day another bomb-threat warning was received. The caller said a device had been planted at a Riverside supermarket. None was found, however.

Hurricane Bebe Claims A Victim

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hurricane Bebe lashed South Pacific islands with winds of up to 182 miles an hour today, cutting off Fiji's contact with the outside world and claiming its first victim.

The storm flattened the island town of Lautoka, leaving a trail of destruction on the Gilbert and Ellice islands and the outlying Fiji group, reports from the area said.

Police in Fiji said before communications were lost that flying debris killed a 4-year-old boy on Lautoka.

WAR

mand seemed to be going out of its way in its daily communiuque to demonstration that U.S. fighterbombers are still striking the Hanoi-Haiphong complex.

The U.S. command's communique rarely mentions individual raids against North Vietnam unlesss it can give details of how much damage was done.

Today the command mentioned raids 40 miles northeast of Haiphong on Sunday and 22 miles southwest of there Monday even though no intelligence reports on bomb damage were published—probably because bad weather prevented reconnaissance flights to check the damage.

Fighting flared again today north of Saigon, where Communist troops have infiltrated villages as close as seven miles from the capital.

B52 bombers flew 16 missions totaling about 50 planes within 50 miles of Saigon in the 24 hours ending at noon today.

Heavy ground fighting extended today in an arc 13 miles northwest, north and northeast of the capital.

Bleeding Face Leads To Arrest In Wife-Beating

The bleeding face of a woman passenger in a car driving down Second Street yesterday resulted in the arrest of a San Rafael man on suspicion of felony wife-beating and drunken driving.

Walter Edward Walsh, 42, of 1960 Fifth Avenue, was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $1,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, officers stopped a car driven by Walsh when they noticed his wife, Ruth Eleanor Walsh, bleeding from facial cuts. Mrs. Walsh, 43, told officers she had been beaten by her husband, according to police.

Mrs. Walsh was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital with a broken nose, scrapes and bruises.

The resolution will be presented at the city council meeting at 7:30 p.m. today when the council considers the future of the building.

Man Transports Wife's Body

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Frank Medina loaded the body of his wife, who had drowned while swimming in Mexico, in a camper rig and drove it across the border to the United States rather than get involved in legal complications in Mexico.

Medina, of Los Angeles, reported the death of his wife Bettie, 46, to police on the U.S. side of the San Ysidro border crossing Monday. A deputy coroner examined the body and said there were "no signs of violence."

She drowned while swimming Sunday about 180 miles south of the border, Medina said, and he decided to transport the body to the United States rather than get involved in the red tape that can delay Americans involved in fatal incidents in Mexico.

Angela's Interest In Fragging Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Angela Davis said Monday that the "fragging" trial of Pvt. Billy D. Smith at Ft. Ord, Calif., was "one of the most important involving a political prisoner today."

emergency services coordinator, to work with Bay Area teams in preparing plans for counteracting earthquake damage. The board unanimously granted approval after learning that no more than one fourth of Kirby's time would be used on the team study.

The damage and fatality predictions came from a newly completed federal study on earthquake risks in the Bay Area. Similar studies will be made throughout the United States within the next year, according to Charles Rainey, project manager for the Bay Area study.

He said the earthquake report has not been made public although Senator Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, chairman of the Committee of Seismic Safety today said the 1906 magnitude quake would kill 10,000 Bay Area residents, based on information from the report.

Wave Accident Victim Is Fair

Jefferey Mazza, 12, of 534 Belle Avenue, San Rafael was reported in fair condition today in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital, after a wave hurled a log at him during an outing at the Point Reyes National Seashore on Sunday.

Mazza is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kenneth Mazza; his father is a captain in the San Rafael Fire Department. Mrs. Mazza said today that the boy was walking on the beach when a high wave suddenly brought in a log that "ran completely over him."

Hospital spokesmen did not have information available of his specific injuries.

Vandals Attack Stabled Horses

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Vandals broke into a stable during the weekend and attacked 27 horses with bricks, rocks and broken boards.

Two thoroughbred ponies were killed in the assault. Two of the other horses attacked were beaten with chunks of concrete and one with a board studded with nails.

An SPCA official called the incident the worst case of animal brutality he had seen. He said the two ponies collapsed from fright during the attack. They were found lying one on top the other.

Boy Injured As Driver Sleeps

A 10-year-old boy was injured in a car accident Saturday on Panoramic Highway, about one mile west of the Mountain View Inn, the California Highway Patrol reported yesterday.

He was a passenger in a car driven by Howard B. Clark, 40, of Berkeley. According to the Highway Patrol, Clark fell asleep at the wheel while eastbound on Panoramic Highway.

The car crossed the lane and crashed into an embankment.

Humphrey Sees Many Problems

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., says Democratic presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern is gaining strength but victory is still "an uphill fight."

Humphrey said Monday there is a decided upswing for McGovern along the eastern seaboard, but elsewhere there are problems.

"I'm a realist," Humphrey said. "I think it's safe to say in the South we don't have a chance, and I think it's honest to say that in the Rocky Mountain states it's most likely not possible to gain a majority of the electoral votes.

Health Care Passage Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield believes Congress will end a long struggle between liberals and conservatives dating back to the end of World War II next year and enact national health insurance legislation.

"A national health insurance program is absolutely necessary, with medical and hospital costs skyrocketing," the Montana senator said Monday in an interview. He said medical insurance would be "the highest priority" of the 93rd Congress.

However, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he believed Mansfield might be a year off in his timetable.

The Foreign Ministry said it had received a radio message that the Nagoya YMCA team, which included an American, reached the summit of Putha Hiunchuli at 4 p.m. on Oct. 14.

Hiroyuki Matsuo, 30, and a Sherpa porter named Nawang Sanden were the first to reach the top.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Peace Action Coalition has announced plans to picket the White House and federal buildings in 20 major cities Thursday.

"The antiwar movement will keep demonstrating in the streets until the United States is entirely out of Southeast Asia," Gordon said.

Demo Leader Nabbed In Probe Of Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Aaron E. Henry, Mississippi NAACP state president and state Democratic party chairman, was arrested here last week on a charge of possessing dangerous drugs. His attorney said they were prescription drugs and the charge will be dropped.

Henry, 50, of Clarksdale, Miss., was arrested early last Wednesday by two vice squad detectives who found a "plastic vial containing numerous pills" in his possession, police records showed Monday. However, his attorney, Ronald Goldfarb, said he would produce legitimate doctors' prescriptions in court.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 24, the 298th day of 1972 with 68 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Saturn and Mars. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

American playwright Moss Hart was born Oct. 24, 1904.

On this day in history:

In 1861, the first telegram was sent across the United States from California Chief Justice Stephen Field to President Abraham Lincoln in Washington, D.C.

In 1939, women's hosiery made of nylon went on sale for the first time in Wilmington, Del.

In 1945, U.S. Secretary of State James Byrnes announced the United Nations charter had gone into effect with Soviet ratification.

In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee for president, said if elected he would go to Korea and seek an end to the war there.

A thought for the day: At his inauguration as the 34th president of the United States, Dwight David Eisenhower said, "Since this century's beginning, a time of tempest has seemed to come upon the continents of the earth."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

A Bizarre Form Of Epilepsy Originates In Temporal Lobes

Temporal lobe epilepsy can be one of the most complex and bizarre forms of the disease. It is so named because the abnormal brain impulses originate in the temporal lobes (just above the ear), but do not spread to the rest of the brain. The "storm" created leads to many peculiar symptoms, unless an epileptic convulsion follows. In the past, many victims were judged to be crazy because of their strange behavior during an attack. Thanks to brain wave tests (electroencephalograph), we now know differently.

The attack usually begins with an aura — a warning of an impending seizure. Sufferers may develop a nonspecific feeling of nausea, fear, or a dream state. Abnormal sensations of smell or taste also occur. Some hear music. One victim always sees a Mickey Mouse-type figure with large round ears.

AT THE SAME time the individual may become pale or flushed, develop gooseflesh, and a desire to void. After a brief period, the victim goes into a state of amnesia and does many weird things. He may begin to undress walk on the table, have a temper tantrum, repeat words, or become aggressive. During this bout, which may last from 15 seconds to 2 minutes, the person often smacks his lips and mouths the tongue.

On "coming to," he may be confused momentarily. He has no recollection of the event immediately afterward. Now and then the attack terminates in a typical epileptic convulsion with incontinence and self-injury.

TEMPORAL LOBE epilepsy usually is found in young adults; it may begin in childhood, but usually escapes detection for a decade or more. In a high percentage, the usual antiepilepsy drugs control the attacks. When drugs fail, surgery is suggested, because in many of these instances, the brain wave "stgrm" is initiated in a scar or tumor. As a rule, those who take their medicine faithfully are able to be gainfully employed.

SWOLLEN TOES

L. P. writes: Could swollen toes be due to arthritis? I have the disease in my knees and shoulders and now the toes of my left foot have become puffy.

REPLY

Yes. Arthritis of the joints of the toes occurs in much the same way as in the joints of the fingers. Involvement of the metatarsal joints at the base of the toes often is mistaken for fallen arches.

SPECIALISTS

K. N. writes: I know that there are women's specialists, but want to know if there are men's specialists too.

REPLY

Yes, if you mean physicians who specialize in diseases peculiar to women or men. Those specializing in women's diseases are gynecologists. The urologist comes closest to specializing in men's disorders, even though he treats women with kidney or bladder disturbances.

NITROGEN MUSTARD

G. N. writes: For what illness is nitrogen mustard used?

REPLY

Leukemia and other diseases involving the lymphatic system.

LET SON DECIDE

W. B. writes: Our son is engaged to a girl whose mother is extremely overweight. Her older sisters are fast becoming obese, altho they were slim when they married. A fat wife would not fit in with our son's future and he says she has promised not to let herself go. Please advise worried parents.

REPLY

Your son will settle his future when he marries "for better or for worse." Let him do the worrying. He may change his mind about fat girls during the next 10 years. If he remains in love and his wife gains weight, he may decide there is more of her to love.

TYPES OF EPILEPSY

P. M. writes: Can epilepsy exist without convulsions?

REPLY

Yes. In petit mal, for example, the victim may manifest only momentary loss of consciousness. Send stamped., self-addressed envelope for leaflet on epilepsy which describes the three chief types of this disease.

BLOOD AFTER MALARIA

F. G. writes: After an attack of malaria, does the blood show the infection forever?

REPLY

No. There is no evidence of the disease in the blood after the causative parasites are eliminated.

Democracy is not a spectator sport.

The word democracy is from two Greek words, demos which means people, and kratos, power. People-power means that you are vested with the power to choose your leaders and to approve or reject certain propositions. You will fulfill that important right on November 7.

Between now and Election Day, you will find careful coverage of the issues and the candidates in the I-J. The entire Marin Magazine, published with the Saturday, November 4th I-J will be devoted to the election.

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

Nixon, McGovern Discuss War

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sen. George S. McGovern contends President Nixon could just as easily have ended the Vietnam war four years ago, but Nixon argues there has been more progress toward real peace in the world this year than in any other.

The contenders for the presidency debated the issue during separate appearances Monday night in New York state, where they sought the nation's second largest bloc of electoral votes.

McGovern appeared on a telethon in New York City and commented on reports a settlement might be near in the war.

"I would like to have him tell us why he waited four years to end a war that could just as easily have been ended four years ago," McGovern said.

About the same time, Nixon was at an evening rally at Mineola in New York's Long Island suburbs. He said there had been significant progress toward ending the war.

"The year 1972 will go down as the year in which more progress was made toward real peace in the world than any other," Nixon said.

His evening address before a crowd of 20,000 followed a 50-mile, 3-1-2 hour motorcade through 12 New York communities which police said drew at least 400,000 spectators—the largest crowds during Nixon's campaign. It was the fifth campaign trip for Nixon this year and the crowds were generally enthusiastic, although there were some antiwar protesters, including a small band who briefly interrupted his speech. The crowd cheered when the hecklers were carried from the auditorium.

CHECKS TIES

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon is "quietly" checking into the possible involvement of White House staff members in the Watergate case, according to CBS.

CBS newsman Daniel Schorr reported on Monday evening that Nixon had ordered White House assistant John Dean to reopen his investigation into alleged links between administration staff members and June 17 break-in and alleged bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate complex.

"It is believed that the Dean inquiry was resumed after President Nixon was cautioned by acting FBI director Patrick Gray that the agency had established more serious direct links to the White House than the President might know about," Schorr said in his televised newscast.

"One presidential aide, asking not to be named, told CBS News, 'don't expect the President to admit anything before the election, but a lot of people in the White House are appalled at how far things got out of hand.' "

DENIES LINK

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Federal agents have some suspects in a phony Florida presidential primary campaign letter defaming Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Henry Jackson, but officials deny the letter was a Republican "dirty trick."

U.S. attorney John Briggs Monday refused to identify the suspects because a criminal case may be pending.

Briggs then reacted to a recent column by Jack Anderson that reported the campaign letter charging Humphrey and Jackson with illicit sexual affairs was one of the "dirty tricks" used by Republicans to discredit the two Democrats during Florida's presidential campaign.

"We've got some good suspects," Briggs said, "But they are a long way from being Republicans, at least on the basis of the little information that I have now.

"I am of the opinion that an accusation that it (the letter) came from certain parties connected with the Nixon administration is as absurd as the material itself."

The U.S. attorney ordered the Tampa FBI office to investigate the source of the campaign letters last week, but denied that Jackson's office had requested the investigation.

AGNEW TOURS

PROVO, Utah (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew literally blew the whistle Monday on youthful demonstrators trying to disrupt his college campus speech.

Speaking to nearly 5,000 people in the gym of the College of South Idaho in Twin Falls, Agnew charged that Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern plans to cut the defense establishment "to the bone."

Sitting in the bleachers, one youth began applauding McGovern's program.

Swiftly reaching into his pocket, Agnew pulled out a police type of whistle presented him at an earlier reception, and gave it a long, shrill blast.,

Then, booming into the microphone, Agnew said "wrong" and won a rousing ovation from the highly partisan audience attending the Republican rally.

While flying from Twin Falls after the speech to Provo, Utah, where he will speak today, Agnew's chartered campaign plane, the Michelle Ann II, was struck by lightning above the Rockies. The plane was undamaged and landed a short time later.

Agnew and the others aboard were unharmed.

APPROACHED

CHARLESTON, Ill. (UPI)—A campaign worker for Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern said Monday he was approached earlier this year by a man claiming to be a Republican party worker, and was asked to participate in political spying.

Eric Wuennenberg, 22, a University of Wisconsin student presently working for McGovern in Coles County, Ill., said the man who approached him was Charles Svihlik of Indianapolis.

The current edition of Newsweek magazine describes Svihlik as a midwest Republican spy agent who was told by Republican operatives to recruit friends to sabotage Democratic campaigns.

Wuennenberg, who had done Republican campaign work during his high school years in Wausau, Wis., said he knew Svihlik from regional GOP activities. Wuennenberg said Svihlik asked him if he "would be interested in doing any espionage work such as disturbing public appearances and planting people in the offices of other Democratic candidates."

Wuennenberg said he did not agree to do the work but later received $25 from Svihlik after campaign appearances by Sen. Edmund Muskie in Madison, Wis., and Sen. George McGovern in Milwaukee were disrupted by demonstrators.

Wuennenberg said he was not responsible for the disruptions, but told Svihlik they were "something we could take credit for."

HITS SPYING

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sargent Shriver charged Monday that at the Nixon administration's direction former Central Intelligence Agency agents are using the same spy tactics on Democratic candidates "they used against the Russians and the Nazis."

"I'm going to propose here very soon...that anybody who's served in the CIA be declared by law ineligible to participate in a political campaign," Shriver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, said in Peoria.

"They are now conducting against the Democratic party—against Muskie or Humphrey or McGovern or myself—the kinds of things they used to do against the Russians and the Nazis," Shriver said.

Harvey Prizes To Two Americans

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Two American scientists received the first annual American-sponsored, $35,000 Harvey prizes Sunday from Israeli President Zalman Shazar.

Prof. Willem J. Kolff of the University of Utah was cited for his invention of the artificial cidney machine and Prof. Claude E. Shannon of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was honored for his mathematical theory of communication. The program is sponsored by Leo M. Harvey of Los Angeles, Calif. and administered by the Technion, Israel's Institute of Technology.

Strange Opposition To Proposition 22

Perhaps never has a ballot proposal produced a stranger pair of political bedfellows than those united against Proposition 22 for the Nov. 7 election.

Together in calling for defeat of Proposition 22 are the California State Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, and the Right To Work Committee.

The Right To Work Committee is an organization with a single purpose: to do away with compulsory union membership. If the AFL-CIO or any of its affiliates has ever had a good word for Right To Work, it is not of record.

Both, however, call for defeat of Proposition 22.

PROPOSITION 22 would establish in California a system for protection of farm workers' right to organize, modeled on the National Labor Relations Act.

It calls for representation elections by agricultural workers — who are excluded from the National Labor Relations Act's provisions. These would be supervised by a newly created Agricultural Labor Relations Board, just as union representation elections in industry and business are supervised by the National Labor Relations Board. If a majority of employees at any farm voted for a specific union, that union would be declared the legal bargaining representative.

Also, there are provisions for board review of unfair labor practice charges — just like under the National Labor Relations Act.

THE NATIONAL Labor Relations Act is considered the greatest triumph in history for organized labor in the United States. The AFL-CIO takes credit for it.

But the California AFL-CIO does not want farm workers to have the rights that other workers have.

It is against Proposition 22 for a simple reason: Passage of the proposition is likely to inhibit Cesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers in getting closed-shop union contracts with farm employers.

The California AFL-CIO knows this because in the only case in which Chavez allowed the workers to vote on whether to be represented by his union, they turned it down overwhelmingly.

The Right To Work Committee is against Proposition 22 because it would permit the closed shop or union shop. This, to the Right To Work Committee, is anathema.

At least, the Right To Work Committee is consistent. The same cannot be said for the AFL-CIO, which would deny farm workers the rights it espoused for other workers.

WE THINK Proposition 22 is necessary to free California farm workers from exploitation either by their employers or by Cesar Chavez. We think they are entitled to have a say as to what union represents them — if any, just as other workers have.

Vote "YES" on Proposition 22.

Wonder How Bob Moretti Defines 'Greater Efficiency'

By EARL G. WATERS

Under the banner of "greater efficiency," Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood, authored a constitutional amendment to establish the Legislature in perpetual session. Instead of meeting anew each year, it would organize every two years for fulltime sessions for another two years. His proposal will appear on the ballot in November as Proposition 4.

California's Legislature started out as a citizen legislature. Its members took time out from their farming or other private pursuits to meet every two years for a few short weeks. They convened in January every other year and introduced their bills. They went home in February to discuss these proposals with the folks at home. They came back in March and by June adjourned, not to return until a year from the following January.

For this service those elected received $1,200 a year. During the odd-numbered years when the Legislature was in session, they received this stipend at the rate of $12 a day for 100 days. After that they received nothing.

To assist them in carrying out their work they employed attaches on a temporary basis. When the Legislature adjourned, the payroll was terminated.

IT WAS NOT UNTIL the first of what has become a series of constitutional changes in the operation of the Legislature that this concept of citizen representation began its drift toward the fulltime "professional legislator." It was not until then that the need for regularly employed legislative aides developed. Each of these changes, starting in 1946, has been advanced under similar banners of "greater efficiency."

The 1946 amendment established the 30-day budget session in the off years to permit annual budgeting in place of the biennial budget. From that time forward the state's budget has become larger and larger.

In 1949 an amendment imposed a limit of 120 days for general sessions, excluding the February recess. In 1958 the February recess was abolished, but the 120 day limit was retained. The limit applied to days in session. With weekends excluded, the sessions could legally run 166 calendar days and, under the system, they always did.

A change in 1956 had retained the 30-day limit on budget sessions but permitted recesses up to 30 days during such sessions. Excepting for the 1960 budget session, the Legislature was unable to meet the 30-day deadline and the governor was compelled to call the lawmakers back in special session each time to complete the budget work.

IN 1966 the constitution was again changed to provide for annual sessions without any limitation as to the length of the meetings. Since that time the sessions have become longer and longer, extending last year into this year.

In the 25 years which have transpired since the advent of these "improvements," the legislative emolument has risen from the $1,200 per annum to $19,500 plus $30 per day tax-free expenses ($900 a month), plus an automobile and travel allowances.

Staff assistance has grown from zero fulltime employees to 1,576, or about 13 aides for each member.

It is also interesting to note that before the lawmakers became dedicated to "greater efficiency," less than $500,000 a year was budgeted for the operation of the Legislature. The 1943-45 appropriation for the Legislature was $950,000. The amount appropriated under Speaker Moretti for just one year is $34,996,824.00.

In view of such a record of expansion in staff and expenses, coupled with a seeming inability to cope with today's problems, one may well wonder how Moretti defines "greater efficiency" and what increases are in store should his proposal for perpetual sessions. pass.

"Frankly, senator, I'm worried about the baby population decline. We're going to need all the taxpayers we can get."

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

The important issues of the upcoming election are brilliantly clarified when a fellow who dislikes Republicans and a gent who can't stand Democrats get to arguing about the Harding administration and Franklin Roosevelt's extended tenure of office.

In a political debate you firmly display the courage of your convictions while your opponent stubbornly reveals the extent of his prejudices.

Campaign oratory is erudite, profound, illuminating —and boring.

Singing Group Not Adjunct Of Seminary

Could I correct an announcement you printed in a recent issue of your newspaper?

"Men of Marin," a singing group, is not affiliated in any way with the San Francisco Theological Seminary. It is simply a volunteer group of men who like to sing good music. It is directed by Wilbur Russell, music department head at the seminary, and rehearsals are held every Monday night on seminary property.

Mr. Russell has organized this group simply as a community service and receives no compensation.

Any man in Marin County who has a good voice and can read music is cordially invited to call Mr. Russell at his San Anselmo home to arrange a try-out.

PTA Presidents Have Other Interests

A few words in defense of the PTA presidents recently referred to as not knowing "where city hall is": Aside from her number one job of raising school-age children, a PTA president generally averages 2-3 hours a day obtaining community involvement in school and district-wide activities, helping to staff the schools with volunteer workers, attending meetings relating to a variety of school concerns, setting up fund-raising activities and performing a multitude of other tasks as laisson between the school and community. Currently you will find all fourteen of our S.R. presidents actively campaigning against Proposition 14 and in hot pursuit of the redevelopment proposal and its impact on the schools.

Due to limitations on availability of time for civic involvement, one must make choices and to the town meeting group, I say: City politics is your thing (and applaud you for it) . . . ours is the schools. Hopefully the community will profit from the efforts of both groups.

Planned Parenthood Not ZPG's 'Sister'

There was a glaring misrepresentation in Ms. Judy Tomsic's letter in the Independent-Journal of Oct. 12. She stated that "ZGP" (zero population growth) and Planned Parenthood are not only "sister organizations" but "Rockefeller Foundation brainchild" as well. I cannot stand idly by and see the life and work of Margaret Sanger and the organization she founded, Planned Parenthood, misinterpreted in print.

Planned Parenthood stands for responsible parenthood by men and women who chose to have children. We are opposed to coercive means of achieving this end, rather we choose to offer children by choice and not by chance through a program of public information and birth control clinics. Planned Parenthood has been doing this and only this since 1916.

Right To Pay High Dental Bills Periled

Mrs. Westover, whose letter against fluoridation appeared in your Aug. 24 issue, has struck another blow for freedom. Let us be thankful that there are still a few individualists ready to stand up and be counted.

We could elaborate on how regimentation and regulation have tightened their grip on every activity in our lives but it is enough to contemplate the sad state of the public water supply system in America.

Thanks to busybodies, do-gooders and just plain no-gooders, hardly one of us can drink a glass of water that has not been subjectej to some form of sedimentation, coagulation, filtration, sterilization, aeration or what have you . . .

And now the latest of a long series of outrages. A determined band of busybodies and do-gooders, marshalled under the banners of the American Medical Association and the American Dental Association, want to add fluorides to our wonderful Marin drinking water.

If they win, few of our children will ever be able to have dental caries again. Our privilege — our inalienable right to pay $80. or $100. a year for treatment of those caries will be lost. Instead, the taxpayer will pick up the check as usual. He will have to pay up to 15 cents a year for each of his children who receives the fluorides along with his drinking water . . .

'Lampoon' Picture Of Kissinger Decried

What ever you, I or Harvard undergraduates may think of Mr. Kissinger, the man is our main peace negotiator. Holding the man up to national — and international — ridicule by publishing a trumped up picture of such a nature can hardly be of any assistance to him in this regard nor does it seem likely to shorten our military presence in Vietnam or to speed the release of our prisoners of war.

Death Story Raises Questions About Prison

In today's (Oct. 17) paper I noticed an article on page nine concerning the death of a San Quentin inmate, Frank C. Venegas . . .

It seems inconceivable to me that the hospital officials at San Quentin could not have immediately provided for a substitute "anesthesiologist", which, according to your article, was a contributing factor in the death of Mr. Venegas. That is to say, the regular doctor who performs such functions was ill and there was no recourse but to transfer the patient by "rush" ambulacce to Marin General, during which he died, over an hour after the stabbing.

First; why did the officials not, apparently, put an anesthesiologist on call, or hire from the local medical roster, a local qualified person?

During the publicized violence season at San Quentin shortly before and for a long period after the death of the late Judge Haley we heard and read about poor medical treatment, and the lack of proper facilities to handle situations which "public" hospitals are better equipped for. Your article, and the death of Mr. Venegas seems to confirm that complaint, now swept under the rug due to apathy, or indifference . . .

. . . I am struck by the possibility that something is amiss here. If there is, then the administration will probably respond by saying that the situation has been corrected. But the bigger question is, were the inmates complaining about real situations that you and I could not put up with, all along? What else did they say that might be true and legitimate?

Proposition 20 Draws Backing Of Host of Eager Idealists

SAN FRANCISCO — To save a still-unspoiled piece of this plundered planet, the conservationists, the concerned, the committed, the eager idealists are putting on another version of the good guys versus the bad guys. The bad guys, as so often before, are the big power, real estate, oil and construction interests.

The conservationists are fighting for Proposition 20 in California's yard-long ballot, which would provide for the orderly development of what remains of the state's once-magnificent coast. Pending adoption of an over-all plan, the kind of gross commercial exploitation blotting so much of the shore would be ruled out.

BUT RIGHT in the middle of the drama a voice is heard uttering stern realities about the future. A report by the Rand Corp. spells out the threatening power shortage that within a decade or two can work serious harm. Commissioned by the state Legislature, the report says that if the use of power continues to increase 120 new nuclear power plants will be needed by the 21st Century. And those plants would be located on the shore and spaced out at eight-mile intervals.

Accentuated in this the most populous state in the union, the choice is one the nation faces. Shall we go on with present rates of growth, progress, profits, eating up rapidly vanishing resources? Or can we restrain this growth and conserve some of the resources and a little of the natural beauty that was America's heritage? The gavel of the immortal auctioneer hovers in the air, "Going, going. . ."

IN THE CURRENT drama the bad guys have turned on a familiar powerhouse. The political management-propaganda firm of Whittaker-Baxter has been retained to put on an opposition drive at a reported cost of $1.5 million. The money comes from the big land companies, oil, power.

Whittaker-Baxter, once considered the most powerful lobbying force in the state capital, is doing a terrific job. They've turned things right up on end with the slogan: "Don't lock up California's beaches." Another W-B slogan is: "Conservation yes, confiscation no."

Proposition 20 gives no powers to condemn and take land. Foremost among the advocates is that unfailing gadfly, the Sierra Club. But with Sierra is virtually every do-good organization in the state from the League of Women Voters to the Ocean Fish Protective Association. Prominent among the advocates is Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, who was so incensed by the tactics of Whittaker-Baxter that he called for an investigation of all political public relations firms.

THE CONSERVATIONISTS have just chalked up one triumph. The Senate and House in Washington gave final approval to creation of the Golden Gate Urban National Recreation Area, a tract of 34,000 acres extending north along the shore to Point Reyes.

Having lived so long beyond our means, using up resources at a rate six or seven times greater than that of any other peoples, we must ask whether we now have the discipline to cut down the spending splurge. The Rand report says that reduction of power uses with economies in the use of lighting and heat, together with the exploration of alternatives such as solar energy, is the only answer. As an appalling thought for the day, the state has a projected population of 33.5 million by the end of the century against 20 million today. Power use must be scaled back to 418 billion kilowatt hours against a projected 848 billion kilowatt hours.

It is not merely the problem of finding sites for so many new nuclear plants. Besides the risk of nuclear accident, the report points out, is the difficulty of disposing of high-level radioactive wastes which remain dangerous for thousands of years after they have been dumped out of the power plants.

Neither side seems confident about the outcome for Proposition 20. The flaring Whittaker-Baxter billboards, "Vote No," may carry the day. And then, as one conservationist puts it, will come a second gold rush as speculators grab for the remaining seashore.

Dirty Tricks Of Campaign Worse Than First Believed

One measure of just how sordid and far-reaching have been the activities of the "dirty tricks department" of the Committee for the Re-election of the President is that things we printed as recently as a week ago are already hopelessly out of date.

In fact, like a lot of other people, we have been lagging all along in our ability to accept the evidence and draw the logical and reasonable conclusions from it.

Partly this is because Republicans tend to be protected by a general public assumption that in some wonderful way they are more upright and virtuous than Democrats. The fact that the two most corrupt administrations in American political history (Grant and Harding) were both Republican has not seriously undermined the theory of superior Republican morality.

Because of that long lingering assumption we first accepted the Watergate affair as a "caper." Later, we heard what Martha Mitchell had to say about the dirtiness of politics and jumped to the charitable (or unfair) assumption that Mrs. Mitchell was probably "not quite herself" when her "bodyguard" pulled her telephone from the wall to keep her from telling more to a reporter.

NOW WE BEGIN to find out that it was just as bad, and just as unexplained by any rational standards, as Mrs. Mitchell was trying to tell us.

Of course everyone judges these things by personal measurements. There is in all this a broad range of types of impropriety to choose from. Some will probably think that the worst was "laundering" secret campaign contributions through banks in Mexico to hide the contributors. It just happens to strike this writer that one of the dirtiest things yet unearthed was forging a letter which was crucial to the primary campaign of Sen. Edmund Muskie. Had he not been faced in Manchester, N.H., by the false allegation that he had referred to persons of French Canadian origin as "Canucks" he might have avoided the further pitfalls that cost him the nomination.

Forgery is not new to politics. In 1924 British Tories overturned Britain's first Labor government with a forgery called the "Zinoviev letter." But that was some time ago now. We all like to think that moral standards rise in such matters. This is 1972, not 1924, and the Republicans are in office, and have every prospect of remaining in office by an enormous advantage. Why, then, resort to house-breaking, eavesdropping, pilfering, illegal use of concealed weapons, illegal concealment of campaign funds and forgery?

WE KNOW BEYOND a shadow of doubt that these things among others were done on a massive scale under the authority of persons inside the White House itself.

There is no apparent reason to think that all of this will seriously influence the upcoming election. But, like Teapot Dome a half century ago, it will certainly injure the Republicans in the years ahead unless they will uncover and repudiate it themselves. So far, they show not the slightest intention of so doing.

Attorney General's Office Proves Slower Than The Legislature

Things that otherwise might never see print:

It took the state attorney general's office seven months to release an opinion on whether Measure A on the November ballot needed a 5,000-signature petition by those supporting creation of the regional park and open space district.

Last week the opinion was released indicating the park district measure did indeed need the petition to be on the ballot legally. Unfortunately for the attorney general, his opinion was wrong.

While his office was dilly-dallying for seven months, special legislation was passed exempting the Marin park district measure from the petition requirement. The measure, for which no petition was circulated, remains on the ballot.

BEN OSTLIND, the outspoken champion of joint use of Hamilton Air Force Base, released figures last week showing 482 persons had responded to a newspaper ad asking opinions on joint use.

According to Ostlind's tally, 420 said they favored joint military-civilian use of the base and 42 opposed it. Returns from Novato, the hot bed of opposition, showed 51 in support and eight against.

As might be expected, the state supreme court's ruling that all major development projects have environmental impact reports has proved a boon to environmental consultants.

Here in Marin County, one engineering firm reported it is in the process of establishing a four-man environmental consultant division.

Elsewhere around the state, one and two-man operations are springing up. County government is being flooded with "letters of introduction." Everyone wants a piece of the supreme court's action, which has been aptly named "the Environmental Consultants' Relief Act of 1972."

SOME COUNTY employees spend more than 165 hours a year sipping coffee in the Civic Center cafeteria. That works out to four work weeks a year.

To reach that figure, one need only time the average length of a county coffee break (about 20 minutes) and multiply by the number of breaks in a day (usually two). Thus 40 minutes a day or three hours and 20 minutes a week or 167 hours a year based on 50 working weeks.

There are about 1,200 county employees earning an average of say $5 per hour. If only one-third (a conservative figure) take coffee breaks, it's costing taxpayers $334,000 a year.

Looking at it another way, it costs taxpayers $1.67 for each cup of coffee.

THE OLD GANG isn't meeting for lunch much any more, or at least it's not billing meals to the county taxpayers.

The old gang, of course, was a group of county supervisors and selected department heads who would palzi-walzi it up over a few drinks and lunch and then write the whole thing off on the taxpayers.

The old gang had its largest membership back in the mid-1960s but was down to a few diehards last year.

Vietnam Politicians Receive Preparation For Free Election

WASHINGTON — If and when there is ever a peace agreement on Vietnam, there will be new elections. The United States is preparing for this eventuality and is now holding classes in Saigon for Vietnamese politicians.

The instructors are on loan from the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

"NOW, GENTLEMEN, These are the materials absolutely essential for an open and free election. This is the Mark IV Bugging Device which can be placed in your opponent's office so you know what he is up to."

"Ah so, instructor, but we have no money to buy such expensive equipment."

"Then you must find the money before the election."

"It is very difficult to get money in South Vietnam for a presidential election."

"It depends on how you go about it, Colonel Tho. The first thing you do is set up committees withinnocent names like the 'Viet Cong for Thieu,' or the 'Committee to Eliminate the Opposition.' Then you go to manufacturing groups, dairymen, importers, exporters, bankers and landowners and make them contribute $10 million to your party."

"THAT IS GOOD. Then we take the money and spend it on the election?"

"No, general, you do not take the money and spend it on the election. You have to protect the people who gave the money. So you send your minister of commerce with a black satchel to pick up the money by hand. He takes the satchel by jeep to Da Nang where it is flown to Hue. In Hue it is taken by water buffalo to the Mekong Delta. There it is packed in bags of rice and shipped to Mexico. The money is put in a secret Mexican bank account and withdrawn a week later. It is flown back to Saigon and placed in the safe of the minister of commerce, and then, and only then, will it be disbursed for the campaign."

"Honorable instructor, what do we spend the money on?"

"Bugging equipment, tape machines, miniature cameras, disappearing ink, forged letterheads, postosl — the usual paraphernalia that anyone needs for a free and open election. Now once you have the equipment, you need volunteers to get your candidate elected. You have to be very selective. You want people with police and security experience, men who have worked in intelligence and espionage. They will be the key figures in the campaign. Yes, Major Ku?"

"WILL THESE MEN go out and make speeches for the candidate?"

"No, dammit! They will remain undercover. You will use them to infiltrate the opposition. Their job will be to cause chaos in the enemy camp. They will report directly to the palace on anything they hear. This information will then be used against the opposition."

"Suppose they are discovered by the opposition?"

"Then the case will be taken over by your minister of justice, who will deal with it at the appropriate time."

"Before or after the election?"

"That's a stupid question, general. It will be dealt with after the election."

"Forgive me, honorable instructor, I was not thinking."

"IT'S ALL RIGHT. You people are new at holding democratic elections and I can't blame you if you don't know all the rules. Now are there any other questions?"

"Honorable instructor, suppose the Saigon press discovers that we are involved in these things? Suppose they make a big stink about what we have been doing? What do we do then?"

"You deny it!

"Class dismissed!"

Illegal Dayan Exports Charged

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Deputy Premier Yigal Allon today asked the ggvernment legal adviser to investigate charges that Defense Minister Moshe Dayan illegally exported items from his personal antiquities collection to the United States for sale to wealthy Jews.

Allon, acting on a complaint that Dayan illegally sent ancient artifacts abroad accompanied by an autograph of the defense minister for each one, asked that police be included in the investigation, the deputy premier's spokesman said.

Allon, Dayan's chief rival for thepremiership when Mrs. Golda Meir retires, is also Minister of Education and Culture, and in charge of the government antiquities department.

College Trustee To Speak

Frances Compton, a member of the College of Marin board, will speak tomorrow on "What the Community College Means to You" at a noon meeting in the home of Joan Sestak, 359 Wilson Way, Larkspur.

The informal meeting is the third in a series of hour long speeches and group discussions sponsored by Mrs. Sestak. The forum was created by Mrs. Sestak for women in the Larkspur and Corte Madera areas.

"I just started the program this fall and so far the response has been favorable. I felt it was a good idea to have informal discussions on a variety of topics. This fall's topic has been education, and mental health will be discussed in the spring," Mrs. Sestak said.

The meetings are held about every three weeks, according to Mrs. Sestak. Speeches begin at 12:30 p.m. and everyone is encouraged to bring their own food for an informal noon lunch.

"It's a non-group group," explained Mrs. Sestak, "It's informal so everyone can feel free to come and bring their friends."

HAIR FASHION

Throughout the ages women have used a variety of accessories to adorn their hair. Shown are examples, from the 15th Century to the present. Pins of filigreed gold and silver (top left) adorn coiffure of the 1860s, and, immediately below that, another fad of the time, a back-to-nature pin of a lion. An artist's representation (top right) of a later-15th Century hairdo shows a fancy style, the kind that began to appear when women stopped using veils. The modern woman's hair (bottom left) has returned to simplicity and is shown held back and in place with two barrettes. A 19th Century hairstyle (middle right) has an elaborate top knot secured with a comb, and (bottom right) a Renaissance hair style is parted in the center and combed smoothly to conform with the head. PARIS COLLECTIONS

Lagerfeld Opens Ready-Wear Week

By ALISON LERRICK

PARIS (AP) — Karl Lagerfeld's collection for Chloe opened the spring and summer ready-to-wear week here yesterday. He described his clothes as "archisimple and archifunctional."

But they're either high fashion or high camp.

The Chloe look: If you have a few hundred dollars to throw away, you'll buy it. It is as soft and fluid as possible. Every fabric, from gabardine to flannel for day and silk to georgette for evening, is thin and fluttering.

The colors: white and ivory, mixed with navy or black, and a splash of shocking pink, jade and red.

There are still quite a few pants that nip in at the waist. They come with loose Spencer jackets or printed silk shirt jackets.

But the "surprise" skirt is what the clothes-happy women will be snatching up. It falls to the ankle in silk, is pleated and loose, and is really pants. But only the wearer can tell for sure.

"It seems that wearing these skirts is an extraordinary sensation," said Lagerfield.

For the street, the skirts come with long silk shirts or twin jacquard sweaters in camel, apricot and cream. In bright pants, they go with long belted jackets with full sleeves. And they can make long dresses too.

For this winter, everything is tweed or plaid. But when the hot weather comes, it's going to be prints. Lagerfeld does his pop prints in red, green and royal blue on a black or white field.

The Carmen Miranda look — it's still alive and well in Paris — includes minibra dresses whose hems hover on the brink of decency, with a scarf tied around the waist. Long dresses come with bra tops and scarf shawls.

But the name that may someday be a household word — in fashionable households — is Rolland Chakkal.

His principle: to make everything too big, the better for you to look skinny in, my dear. For sports occasions. There are linen pants suits. You wear them crushed because linen is crushable.

Chakkal's prints, which go on cotton for day and voile for evening, are multicolored little squiggles.

His huge dresses are printed. They are gathered at the shoulder and waist and fall in folds all over and down to the floor. On the black cotton one, you roll up the sleeves. The gold dress, though, has slit sides and is as filmy as a nightgown.

And, for a real bedroom look, try the pale peach or lime dresses in pajama silk. If you don't stuff your hair into the matching little turban, you'll never have the courage to go out on the street. Especially since Chakkal's favorite shoes are satin spike-heeled mules.

Suits Popular On Ski Slopes

Women's suits are taking an increasingly popular place in winter skiwear this season, in a wealth of knits and nylon. Some are quilted, others are prints, and one is polka dotted in a two-piece cotton suit that is treated for water repellancy.

The ultimate in ski fabric is one suit of Thai silk in a colorful patchwork pattern accented by taped seams.

Flat knits and rib knits combine for the ski sweater group. Some of the combinations come in many-splendored stripes.

The Fashion Game For High School

Sleeve-on-sleeve tunics over turtlenecks and skirts —that's how school girls play the fashion game this fall with the popular layered look. Others put cap-sleeve jumpers with print shirts and color-matched tights. Layered look for the 3 to 6-year-old set is especially easy with the durable knits this year.

Many are the earthy, weathered tones of the rustic and rural for fall.

Well, you might at least look up from the newscast and admire my new 5th Avenue robe. Don't you like the high waistline and the zip front? Stroke it a little. Black Girl Can't Understand Why White Friend Wants To Be Black

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I am a 17-year-old black girl and I think being black is fine, even with its complications — if you're born that way.

But I have a white friend who is messing up because she wants to be black. She claims she understands our problems and wants some kind of skin change treatment. (She read "Black Like Me" three times.) Part of her problem is rebellion against prejudiced parents, but she's going too far.

I think it's a shame to trade natural advantages for make-believe that only gets you into racial inequality. To show how far she's gone, she even asked our school nurse for a sickle cell anemia test. When I'm with her on the street, she yells, "Hey Brother" to black dudes, but if she sees a white person she sneers, "Look at that $!?& cracker."

How do I get it across that friendships are fine, but you shouldn't be disloyal to your race by mocking it and putting it down? — G.M.

G.:

Couldn't you get it across that an inside-out Oreo risks ostracism from both races? Black people will either think she's crazy, or resent her pity, or see her reverse bigotry as the biggest laugh of the year. Those white "crackers"? She may find they've got lots of snap.

Ask her what she'd think of you if you went "Uncle Tom." — HELEN

G.:

Maybe your girlfriend feels "white" is inferior because she hangs around only with blacks. In her eyes, she's a minority and she probably doesn't like it a bit.

Tell her she needn't feel guilty about her color, for no one person or race is better than the other. We're all special in our own way: why change what God tried His best to do? — SUE

RAP:

What's with a cop who tells kids he can get them a lid (of marijuana) or a jug of wine? — "Just ask when I'm off duty, because I'm like the next guy — I can get stoned too."

He isn't a narc. He'd give us the stuff just so we'd like him. He even calls other cops "pigs." The guy wants to be our pal. He isn't. But he thinks he is because some of the fellowsuse him. — TURNED OFF

TURNED OFF:

Your cop is going the same route as G.M.'s white girl (see above). Trying to buy acceptance with putdowns of their own kind, these two only set themselves up for ridicule or a con job. — HELEN

T.O.:

Let's hope they both learn quickly that if you can't be proud of what you are, you'll never make anyone proud to be your friend. — SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I've wanted to write about "Outcast," who couldn't live with her scar, ever since I read her letter, because that's how I felt for a long time after an accident gave me a bad scar under my eye. My parents planned plastic surgery when I was old enough, but when I made it through seventh grade, I realized the scar was a part of me and I no longer despised it or myself. Now I'm a senior, captain of the twirling squad, popular and happy. The scar still turns bright red in the sun, but it makes me special, and reminds me that I'm alive when I might have been dead. — THE GANGSTER

A Child Makes Plea Against Chewing Objects

CHICAGO (UPI) — Gary Ward of Cridersville, Ohio, wants children to stop putting small objects in their mouths. He also wants parents and teachers to have youngsters dispose of all short pencils. Gary is 9 and in the fourth grade, says a family safety story in the National Safety Council's magazine. The story is by Gary and it is titled: "I Swallowed My Pencil."

He did when he had his pencil in his mouth and was chewing on it for inspiration. It lodged in his stomach and was removed via surgery. He was out of commission for more than six weeks.

"I had missed school, I could not play little league baseball, and swimming, all because of a little pencil," he reported.

SOFT UNDERFOOT, and the price is right. What started out as a decorator's device is now a practical answer to everyday homemaking chores — carpet in the kitchen. This one by Barwick has the added bonus of carpet protector and an island upholstered in the same material.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

More And More Kitchens To Come With Carpets

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by General Features Corp.

Most homemakers I know are more than ready for products that lighten the workload. The old idea of having lots of kids so the harvesting could be kept in the family certainly doesn't stand a chance today. Even the nicest family share-the-work plans aren't always effective when it comes to plain old cleanup — like floor sweeping, vacuuming, window washing and woodwork scrubbing.

So until someone designs a house without floors, windows or walls, some one member of the household has to be the jack of all chores — and I bet it's the female of the species in nine out of 10 households.

That's why it's a nice surprise to discover that more and more kitchen carpet manufacturers are going to introduce products with carpet protector. That stain-resistant finish has lightened our load on upholstery, it's worked on Dad's best ties and the same principle has worked on the family raincoats — the kind you dump in the washingmachine.

The extra boon of fabric protectors may sway some homeowners from their firm stand against carpet in the kitchen and laundry. The holdouts feel "there's nothing as clean as a freshly scrubbed floor." But, of course, that's a pretty archaic concept since even hospitals have found that carpeted floors are often cleaner floors than the one an old mop or sponge is wiped across.

Popular Jewelry

Some of the popular costume jewelry pins for fall include intricate filigrees, precious-look pieces, enchanting abstracts, shimeering chatelaines, and whimsical animal looks.

Anyone who's worked in a carpeted kitchen will vouch for the fact that there's more to a kitchen then sterility. Putting kitchen carpet underfoot can soften the psychological blows of kitchen work, says Mary Lou Rooney, consumer education specialist.

"The average homemaker spends 24 hours a week in the kitchen — more time than in any other working area. During much of this time she is subjected to noise, confusion and mess, and besides cooking disasters, she is subject to the possibility of spilled food, shattered dishes or even having a personal accident."

Kitchen carpeting, says Mrs. Rooney, used to be considered merely a decorative luxury. Now it's evolving into a practical addition to the kitchen/laundry area. It mutes sound, provides easier floor maintenance and the addition of protective treatment makes it resistant to all kinds of everyday soil incidents.

"Quick vacuum-cleaning is one of the beauties of maintaning a carpeted kitchen floor," says Mrs. Rooney. "You can dump the brooms and dustpans, dirty sponge mops and put away those cans of floor wax."

Americans Are Adding More Spice

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans are putting more spice in their lives.

The American Spice Trade Assn. says consumption of spices, herbs and seasoning vegetables totaled 386 million pounds in 1971, an increase of nearly 42 per cent in less than 10 years.

Figuring in the growth are two new to most United States consumers and two old-fashioned ones whose distribution is increasing.

Growing interest in Chinese cookery has created a market for star anise, available largely in specialty stores and food departments of large department stores. It comes from a type of magnolia tree and resembles a small brown star with many points. Its licorice-like flavor is stronger than that of regular anise, which is the seed of an herb related to parsley and dill.

HAIR NEWS

Hair Designer, John Jenkins & his family have returned from a tour of Europe, where John attended The Vidal Sasson School in London and worked in several shops in Paris. John feels we are far more advanced in the cosmetic industry as far as using cosmetics that are good for the hair and skin. Paris, of course, holds it's own as far as being first with Perfumes.

The reason Europe sets the trends in fashion of hair is due to the education involved behind each hairdresser. There is so much more schooling, consequently keeping a higher standard.

Styles to look for will be different styles of bobbing the hair along with short natural brush cuts for the women. For men, the look is very long but it appears as though shorter free-flowing cuts are to be seen.

In the leading shops both in London and Paris, he witnessed exquisite cutting procedures along with excellent air waving and iron work.

John Jenkins represents The Fig Leaf Hair Salon in Larkspur where both men and women can find the finest in hair cutting along with the most complete line of RedKen products available in Marin.

Bids To Be Sought For New Plant

The Kentfield School District board last night approved going to bid for the building for the hearing handicapped to be constructed in the rear of Adaline E. Kent Elementary School. Bids will be opened Nov. 16.

The school will actually be operated by the county schools office, explained interim Supt. Byron W. Mauzy, under a state-aided program. Because the school must be on school district property, the Kentfield board becomes the applicant for funds.

Designed to accommodate 50 elementary students with hearing handicaps from throughout Marin county, the school will have five classrooms. After eighth grade, students will be integrated into the regular high schools.

The Kentfield School District board also:

RESIGN — Accepted the resignation of John A. Guendner, custodian at Kent School, a district employee for 26 years.

PROPOSITION 14 — Formally approved a statement opposing Proposition 14, the property tax revision measure.

NEGOTIATING — Recognized the Kentfield Teachers Association, and the Kentfield Classified Employees Organization for negotiation purposes; designated Mauzy as its negotiator.

CURRICULUM — Approved a timetable of workshop curriculum meetings: Nov. 27, seventh and eighth grade programs and extended learning program; Jan. 22, progress report on child center program; Feb. 26, progress report on teacher evaluation, and the district articulation program; March 26, students with learning disabilities; April 23, special programs like music and Spanish; May 14, task force report on gifted child program.

SPANISH — Approved restructuring the district's Spanish program by halving the fifth and sixth grade classes and spreading Spanish to second, third and fourth grades.

OUTDOOR — Approved sending fifth and sixth graders to the county schools' outdoor education one-week program at Santa Cruz in the Spring, but decided students would be allowed to go only once; costs will be borne by parents and in case of hardship the district or the P-TA will help with scholarships.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT — Designated Mauzy as adviser for recruiting a new superintendent and agreed with him that Feb. 5 would be the last date for receiving job applications; decided to discuss screening and recruitment procedure at its Nov. 13 meeting.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned at 10:45 p.m. to the next regular meeting at 8 p.m. Nov. 13 at Wolfe Grade School.

Ired Rarick Blasts 'Terrorist' Nader After Critical Report

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)— U.S. Rep. John Rarick, called "the king of bigotry" by Ralph Nader, says Nader is "an Arab terrorist" who opposes all things American except tax exemptions for the foundations that pay him.

Rarick said Monday night that Nadar's recent series of congressional profiles, collected in the book "Who Runs Congress," were products of left-wing skulduggery.

In the Rarick profile, Nader called the Louisiana Democrat "an anachronism" who "represents the king of bigotry."

"Paranoia is not a passing phenomenon with Rarick," the profile says, "it is a clawing obsession that eats at the very heart of the man. Rarick's racism is pervasive."

Rarick said he was not interviewed for the profile.

"What gets me is that the newspapers get all upset at Arab terrorists' attacks in Munich," Rarick said, "but when this Arab terrorist (Nader) attacks the whole congress, they don't get upset.

"It's unfortunate the newspapers picked up this yellow journalism actually prepared by the American Civil Liberties Union and the League of Women Voters," said the congressman.

"Nader arranged for ghost writers, including these two groups, to interview past political opponents, dig into newspaper morgue files and survey dissenting groups in congressmen's home districts," Rarick said.

"Nader is against everything that's American except the tax exemptions for the foundations that pay his salary."

Spokesmen for Baton Rouge chapters of the ACLU and the League of Women voters both denied that they had anything to do with preparing the Rarick profile.

Consumer Water Cost To Keep Rising, Expert Says

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The cost of water throughout the United States will continue to go up, the National Association of Water Companies was told Monday night.

Ralph L. Swingley, association president, told the group's 76th annual convention that water costs "have to continue going up" due to inflation and the need to expand facilities to provide for more reservoir storage space.

"Booming population has led to increased demands," Swingley, a director and member of the executive committee of the Indianapolis Water Co., said.

"As the demand rises," he said, "it takes more and more storage space to have water available, but unfortunately reservoir areas near water treatment plants already have been put into use. That means companies must go farther out for reservoir land. In turn, that means higher costs for land and piping to the treatment centers."

Swingley said water costs have increased steadily since the 1930s.

"Now inflation has boosted the cost of labor, equipment and new buildings. All this reflects in rates," he said.

Ordinance On Houseboats Will Be Eyed Tonight

An ordinance which would give the City of Sausalito some control over the houseboats berthed in its waters will be considered by the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The proposed regulation would give the city power to regulate the number of houseboats on its waterfront and make sure they comply with fire and safety codes, according to Councilman Evert Heynneman.

Because of the unique quality of houseboats, he said the ordinance would not require them to conform to the city's uniform building code, though they would have to conform to safety codes.

The council will also continue its deliberation with the Golden Gate Bridge District on a site and design for the district's proposed ferry terminal in Sausalito.

New Water Connect Fees Due Hearing

A proposal to establish fees for new connections in the Marin Municipal Water District will be the subject of a public hearing before the district board at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office in Corte Madera.

The new fees, ranging from $200 for an apartment connection to $350 for a single-family home, are designed to require new MMWD customers to "buy into" the existing water system.

In other business, the board will hold a public hearing on a plan to raise the cost of water for school districts to the rate now paid by other district customers.

The district proposes to raise school district charges from the current 14 cents per 100 cubic feet of water to 34 cents per 100 feet, the rate now paid by private customers.

The hike would be made over a two-year period, with the school district rate rising to 25 cents in July of next year and to 34 cents by July of 1974.

COURT ACTION

Review Of Kent State Case Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to take up the request of a group of Kent State University students to pursue in federal courts their allegations that Ohio National Guardsmen were trained in such a way to "make inevitable the use of fatal force in suppressing civilian disorders."

The case is an outgrowth of the 1970 slaying of four young persons and the wounding of several others on the campus of the northern Ohio school when Ohio Guardsmen fired on students demonstrating in the wake of the U.S. incursion of Cambodia.

The high court also agreed to decide whether the Air Force could forcibly discharge a woman officer, Capt. Susan Struck, who became pregnant while serving in Vietnam.

Miss Struck, a nurse, argued that natural fatherhood is not grounds for military separation and that therefore neither should be natural motherhood.

The Court will hear arguments on both cases later this term and follow with written opinions.

Before taking a two-week vacation —its first of the new term —the Court also agreed to hear Texas' appeal from a federal court order that set up congressional districts different from those drawn by the state legislature.

The federal order threw six incumbent Democratic congressmen into districts in which they would have to run against each other.

The court, however, affirmed a lower federal court's reapportionment plan for the Alabama state legislature despite the state's complaint it fragmented too many counties.,

In the Kent case, a group of students charged that the Ohio Guardsmen deprived them of life and liberty without due process of law.

All three issues raised by the students were dismissed by a federal court in Cleveland, but the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals reinstated one of them and sent the case back to Cleveland for more proceedings.

The issue, as stated in the circuit court's opinion:

"Was there and is there a pattern of training, weaponry and orders in the Ohio National Guard which singly or together require or make inevitable the use of fatal force in suppressing civilian disorders when the total circumstances at the critical time are such that nonlethal force would suffice to restore order and the use of lethal force is not reasonably necessary?"

During the May 4, 1970, campus disorders that followed the U.S. incursion into Cambodia, Ohio, guardsmen fired into a crowd of students and other young persons on the Kent State campus, killing four and wounding several others.

The plaintiffs, members of the student body, are alleging their constitutional rights were violated and are seeking court action to insure that such incidents don't recur.

The complaint alleges that the shootings were the result of a series of unconstitutional practices and that such practices and their result deprived the persons killed and injured of life and liberty without due process of law.

In other orders, the Supreme Court refused to consider:

Whether marijuana may legally be classified as a narcotic drug.

The appeal of Robert T. Carson, former aide to Sen. Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, from his conviction for bribery conspiracy.

Refusal of the Navy and the national archivist to give pathologist John Nichols of Prairie Village, Kan., bullets and skin samples relating to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

SOUTH MUTTERS

In a recent English tournament, one of the best British players found himself in a contract of four hearts. When the dummy was put on the table, South began to mutter into his beard.

"Cold for six diamonds," he complained audibly. "We'll be the only idiots that failed to bid the slam."

South ruffed the second club, led a heart to the king and disgustedly returned a heart to finesse with the jack. This was a fatal error.

West won with the queen of hearts and led another club. South was obliged to ruff again, and now West had one more trump than South!

DOWN TWO

Declarer led out the ace of hearts, his last trump, and woke up to his danger when East discarded a spade. Now South had to start on the diamonds, but West ruffed the second diamond and led his last club. East took two club tricks, and South was down two.

SAFE PLAY

South should draw just two rounds of trumps with the king and ace. Then he must start on the diamonds, allowing the opponents to get two tricks with the two missing trumps. In the meantime, South would keep control of the hand with his own two trumps.

South could not afford to try a trump finesse on the second round of hearts. If he lost the finesse, he might lose a cold game that he had actually bid as well as the cold slam that he had failed to bid.

Gaza City Mayor Is Fired From Post

GAZA CITY, Israel (UPI)—Rashed a Shawa, the Arab mayor of Gaza, was fired Sunday for refusing to extend municipal services to a nearby Palestinian refugee camp.

Shawa, explaining his failure to comply with the government directive, said he felt that any change of status of the refugee camp "or of its relationship with the U.N. Works and Rehabilitation agency is apt to create far-reaching political and social repercussions for the Palestinian case in public international law ...."

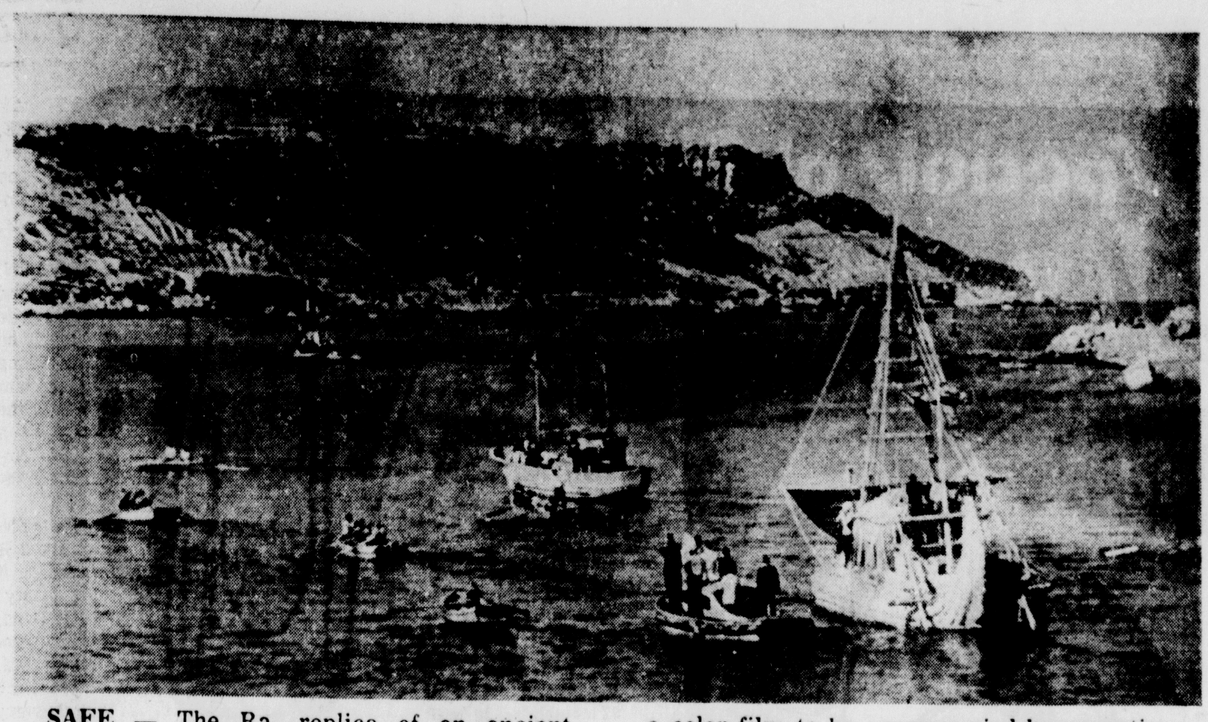
Schoolgirl's Tip Leads To Arrest

BURLINGAME, Calif. (UPI)—When 10-year-old Mary Silvestri, the daughter of a policeman, spotted an automobile cruising near Our Lady of Angels School last week while she was on traffic guard duty, she made a note of the license.

Police Sunday credited Mary's alertness with being instrumental in the speedy capture of Richard C. Burkhardt, 19. He allegedly admitted he attempted to abduct Judy Mason, 10, Mary's classmate who was walking to school from her home nearby. Burkhardt reportedly jumped into his car and sped away when Judy's mother rushed out of her house to her daughter's side.



SAFE — The Ra, replica of an ancient Egyptian vessel, lies safely at anchor. Adventures of the Ra I and Ra II will be seen in a color film to be accompanied by narration by a crew member Nov. 2 at the Veterans Memorial Building.

'Voyages Of Ras' Will Be Shown

"Epic Voyages of the Ras," color sea saga, will be shown at 8 p.m. Nov. 2 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, accompanied by a live narration.

Norman Baker, navigator and American representative of the international crew of Thor Heyerdahl's expeditions aboard Ra I and Ra II, will describe the experiences.

Heyerdahl had the two vessels built on papyrus reeds in accordance with 4,000-year-old working drawings found on the walls of an Egyptian tomb.

He then set forth to learn whether the wild Atlantic Ocean could have been crossed before the invention of what we now know as sailing ships.

Both voyages made by Heyerdahl ended in near tragedy, but gave credence to Heyerdahl's belief that man could have sailed from Egypt to South or Central America in papyrus boats.

Tickets for the film are on sale at all Ticketron outlets, Macy's and Sherman and Clay.

Music Instrument Sales Swing To An Upbeat

By Nancy Iran Phillips
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CHICAGO — Even the cash registers are making music, the American Music Conference reports.

Retail sales of musical instruments soared past the billion-dollar mark for the first time last year. And they're on their way up the scale for this year, too, the association predicts.

Retail sales for 1971, the latest figures available, show that Americans spent $1.106 billion for instruments, sheet music and accessories.

The music conference is a nonprofit association of manufacturers and music retailers organized in 1947 to help strengthen the industrq following World War II when there had long been a shortage of instruments. It now promotes amateur musical activity through road-show school assembly programs, films, special events, publicity and market research, according to Theodore M. McCarty, president.

Members of the conference include the National Association of Music Merchants, National Piano Manufacturers Association, National Association of Band Instrument Manufacturers and the National Association of Electric Organ Manufacturers. Other member groups are the Guitar and Accessories Manufacturers Association of America, the National Association of Music Merchandise Wholesalers, National Music Publishers Association, and the more than 150 companies related to music but not affiliated with the other groups.

Their own research indicates there are today more than 34 million musicmakers between the ages of 5 and 75 in the U.S., a figure 12 per cent ahead of the last national tally. Research by the conference also shows that 42 per cent of all U.S. households have at least one amateur musician and one out of every five Americans can play an instrument.

The survey, conducted by the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago, is based on interviews of 1,600 families and more than 5,600 individuals.

The three favorite instruments of U.S. amateurs are the piano — which is the leader by a sizeable margin — guitar and organ. The conference reports that there are some 15 million pianists, seven million guitar players and four million amateur organists. Other instruments in the top-10 catagory are clarinet, drums, trumpet, accordion, saxophone, violin and flute, in that order.

More than 10 million persons, they say, play two or more instruments.

Figures for 1971 show that fretted instruments — including nonamplified guitars, ukuleles, and mandolins — and organs lead in sales. Strong showings were made in the areas of sheet music, accessories, drums and self-instruction aids.

Though the figures are for the U.S., the music business is an international one. Many instruments come from overseas. "The retailers sell both domestic and imported instruments," McCarty said. He mentioned the Honer harmonicas from Germany and the Kawai pianos from Japan as well as brass and woodwind instruments from Europe.

There are a number of publicly held companies in the music business, including Hammond Corp. and Wurlitzer Co. on D. H. Baldwin and Tolchin Instruments on the American Stock Exchange; and Allen Organ Co., American Music Stores, and Kustom Electronics available over the counter.

Though conglomerate acquisitions have slowed during the past years, McCarty pointed to the strength of the music business as shown by the acquisition of Nhicago Musical Instrument by Norlin Corp. within the past year. Crowell, Collier and Macmillan acquired C. G. Conn, maker of organs, and Magnavox purchased H. and L. Selmer, makers of musical instruments.

Columbia Broadcasting System's purchase of Fender Guitar, Electro Music, Rogers Drums and Emenee also indicated the confidence seen in the future of the music business.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Pippin' Arrives; The Right Elements

NEW YORK (UPI)—The fizz and sparkle needed by the Broadway theater season was supplied Monday night at the Imperial Theater by a musical romp titled "Pippin."

It is a no-holds-barred entertainment that could easily have gotten out of hand, but it comes across as a winner full of zany fun, good songs, spirited dancing, excellent performances and some satirical shafts that are not without topical meaning.

The authors will have to forgive me for a moment while I concentrate on director-choreographer Bob Fosse, who has been no slouch in the past. There is a script, and there are songs, but there are scores of touches that make the thing work that can only be attributed to the director.

There is no bit of musical show business that he hasn't tossed into the pot with the abandon of a dervish. Many of these bits are shopworn and trite, but Fosse has achieved the alchemist's dream of turning dross into gold in this case.

This is a musical comedy with a libretto by respected author Roger O. Hirson, and, of all things, the time is 780 A.D., the place is the Holy Roman Empire of Charlemagne, and the bumbling hero is the king's son and heir, Pippin (historically, Pepin).

That's material for a musical comedy? In this case, it is.

The music and lyrics are by Stephen Schwartz, whose "Godspell" musical is still running here in its second year. He has furnished a number of melodious numbers that do not rely too much on his background of rock music.

The story is conceived as being presented in the format of a magic show supervised by a character called "Leading Player." He is in and out of the action frequently, sometimes with his own song and dancing numbers, while stage-managing the tale of young Pippin, who tries many things and never finds life satisfactory.

Pippin is dissatisfied with being a scholar, he tries being a warrior, a sexual binge isn't the answer, he fails as a revolutionary, fantasizes murdering his father and becoming king only to realize this isn't the answer either. He is offered the chance of a death in blazing glory as a possible cure for his malaise. He settles, like most, for matrimony.

A Broadway newcomer named John Rubinstein is exactly right as the inept, unhappy Pippin.

Ben Vereen is sensational as "Leading Player." Veteran Irene Ryan, back on the stage after many movie and television years, stops the show cold as Pippin's grandmother with a song, "No Time At All."

Eric Berry is as majestic and bluff a monarch as one could wish, and Leland Palmer is a standout singer-dancer in the role of Fastrada, the king's second wife. Jill Clayburn is an appealing schemer as the widow who makes Pippin accept domesticity.

Fosse's staging gets remarkable assists from Tony Walton's imaginative scenery and Jules Fisher's lighting. Patricia Zipprodt's costumes are truly fantastic.

Other Schwartz songs that catch the ear are "Corner of the Sky," "Glory," "Simple Joys," "Spread a Little Sunshine," "Morning Glow", "On the Right Track," "Kind of Woman" and "Love Song."

Stuart Ostrow produced the show.

"Pippin" has to be seen.

Romney Hits Role In Housing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney said Monday the federal government ought to consider ending its direct role in the housing industry.

In a speech before the National Mortgage Bankers Association, Romney said the nation can "no longer afford $100 billion mistakes." He said federal programs should be consolidated and their administration decentralized.

He said the role of government, both federal and state, should be "supportive—supplementary" to the leadership coming from the community itself.

The long range alternatives, Romney said, included ending the federal role in housing completely and "privatize" the FHA; turning over FHA and HUD operations to state governments; reducing the federal role by giving more power to the states; decentralizing the FHA by making block grants to the states for housing, and gradual changes in methods of subsidizing housing.

The Neophyte's Impressions Of Women Attacked

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—A prominent female physiology professor says the medical profession has a "kind of contempt" towards women patients.

Dr. Estelle Ramey of Georgetown University said in medical schools "women are usually used as the prototype for the whining, complaining crock who has nothing wrong with her, but just comes in and takes up your time.

"The impression is very firmly instilled in neophyte doctors that a very large percentage of their female patients are not very sick when they come in," she said at a news conference Monday at the University of California.

Dr. Ramey said women medical students "are diverted to pediatrics, anesthesiology, psychology and virtually excluded from surgery."

FEEL THAT AURA — By rubbing her hands together, Barbara Florance (right) believes she can feel heat from the aura which she says surrounds every person. According to Mrs. Florance, auras come in many colors and you can tell many things about an individual from the color of the aura that surrounds him. She and her daughter, Hilary (left), were in Mill Valley the other day to talk about the psychic world.

PSYCHIC POWERS . . . SOMETIMES

She Sees Things Others Can't —If Weather's Right

By JAY GOODWIN

Barbara Florance says she can see electro-magnetic auras emanating from the people she meets — if the weather is right.

The color of these auras depends on the mood of the person, she reports, so that a white aura means the person "has things pretty well together" while a black aura indicates the person is in dreadful health.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Florance's extra sensory perception isn't foolproof. When a visitor spoke with her recently about her extraordinary psychic abilities, she said the sunshine was so bright she couldn't see any auras.

Though somewhat flustered by her failure to see anything, Mrs. Florance proceeded to explain her visit to Mill Valley.

She spends most of her time criss-crossing the United States for the Inner Peace Movement, a national organization which promotes the study and application of extra-sensory perception — that is, teaching people to use their inherent psychic powers.

The Inner Peace Movement, which is headquartered in Washington, D.C., has about 200 leaders lecturing across the U.S., said Mrs. Florance. They charge $1 an hour for their one-hour orientation lecture and their 90-minute followup workshop.

When she is not on the road, Mrs. Florance lives in Washington, D.C., where she has worked in the past for several school groups and community organizations. She is divorced and has two other young children, in addition to her 15-year-old daughter Hilary, who accompanies her on her travels.

Seeing electro-magnetic auras is only one of her abilities, says the 41-year-old woman. She can also sense when people are nearby, predict the future and sense activities of distant friends and relatives.

She recalled her most vivid vision:

"Right before Bobby Kennedy was killed, I saw the whole thing and heard a shot and people screaming. At the time of my vision, I didn't realize it was Bobby Kennedy, but when I heard the screams on television, it was exactly the same."

There was also the time she sensed the death of her sister's fiancee:

"I was in Spain, reading a newspaper and I suddenly had a picture of a jet plane crashing, with a person falling out. The next day I got a cable from my sister saying her fiancee had just died in a jet crash."

Experiences like these persuaded her to quit her job as a biologist at the National Institute of Health and begin studying and teaching extra sensory perception full time. She was in Mill Valley recently for a lecture and follow-up workshop.

Mrs. Florance believes that the universe is composed of energy. As man breathes in this energy and circulates it through his body, an electro-magnetic field is created around his body.

These auras, she asserts, vary in size and color depending on a person's mood and self-awareness.

A green aura indicates a person is in the process of being healed, says Mrs. Florance. A pure yellow aura means he is concentrating on intellectual matters while a gray aura indicates anger and confusion.

A pure golden aura means the person has achieved "universal consciousness."

"The more relaxed you are," says Mrs. Florance, "the more energy you take in and the wider the field around you is."

Jesus Christ, who was the living embodiment of total love and self-awareness, says Mrs. Florance, had a golden aura that anyone could see. In fact, the golden aura or halo that is generally depicted in paintings of Christ, says Mrs. Florance, is acutally his electro-magnetic field.

As people come to understand and use their latent psychic abilities, they will learn to lead richer, fuller lives. Since she dropped her early skepticism and came to accept the validity of ESP, she says she has dealt more openly with the people she meets.

Mrs. Florance's daughter, Hilary, also claims heightened psychic abilities.

"It has made me more effective in dealing with people. I find I can be more direct with people, rather than tripping all over myself," says Miss Florance.

Understanding the moods of others, predicting the future and sensing occurences miles away are all means to understand oneself, says Mrs. Florance.

Yet, as helpful as such instruction could be, the Inner Peace Movement only seeks those who are ready for ESP.

"Certain people are ready for it. We're here to help those people. We're not trying to beat people over the head with this."

Mrs. Florance concedes that many of her psychic claims are hard to comprehend, let alone believe.

"The whole point of this is that you can't prove it. The only way to prove it is to experience it yourself."

Inmate Moves Toward Guard Tower, Is Shot

A San Quentin inmate was reported in satisfactory condition in the prison hospital today after being shot when he refused to heed a guard's orders to halt.

James W. L. Park, associate warden, said the shooting occurred at 10:30 p.m. Saturday when a tower guard spotted James Lanham, 30, advancing toward the tower from among prison buildings on the waterfront. Park said the convict ignored three warning shots, then was shot in the upper leg when he continued to advance.

The episode is still under investigation, Park said.

Lanham was sentenced from Santa Cruz County in 1969 to six months to five years for selling dangerous drugs. He was paroled but returned to San Quentin Aug. 15 for treatment in the narcotics treatment unit.

Halloween Party Set In Novato

A special Halloween party, sponsored by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department, for all school playground groups will be held from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday in the multipurpose room at West Novato School.

Ghosts and goblins will be all over the place. A costume and mask contest will be part of the party, and there will be prizes for most original, ugliest and best costumes.

Each playground group will enter a scarecrow. Games and other activities will be held for the entertainment of the children.

Ex-Planner In Cotati Booked —Gun Assault

A former Cotati planning commissioner has been arrested on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon following an auto chase spiced with gunshots on Highway 101 south of Cotati.

Herbert Richard Miller, 49, of 240 West Cotati Avenue, a private investigator, was booked into Sonoma County Jail Friday and scheduled for arraignment today in Central Sonoma Municipal Court.

Sheriff's deputies said the incident left a 16-year-old Petaluma girl terrified but unharmed. Officers said the incident began about 11 p.m. in the empty parking lot at Holt's Marine, 5180 Commerce Boulevard, Rohnert Park. The girl, Karol Rene Wilhelm of 179 King Street, had stopped to chat in separate cars with a friend, Evelyn A. Allen, 20, of Sebastopol.

Miss Wilhelm said a man approached them with a gun and she drove off southbound on Highway 101 to escape him. A Marin County deputy sheriff, Wayne H. Woodside, said he saw the man chase the girl and force her van truck off the road into a clump of redwood trees at Pepper Road.

California Highway Patrolman Douglas A. Scott said he also witnessed the crash and, with Woodside, held Miller until sheriff's deputies arrived.

Officers said they took a .38-caliber revolver from Miller and that four shots had been fired. Miller told officers he thought there had been four occupants in the van and that they were trying to break into Holt's Marine. Officers said Miller appeared to have been drinking.

Miller was appointed to the Cotati Planning Commission in October 1971 but served only four months.

Cyclist Critical After Fall Into Freeway Fence

A 44-year-old Mill Valley man was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital following a motorcycle accident yesterday on Highway 101.

James Kuyper of 7 Grove Street is under treatment for head injuries, cut lips and a cut forehead suffered when he was thrown from his motorcycle into a chain link fence along the southbound Marin City off-ramp.

According to the California Highway Patrol, Kuyper drove his motorcycle off the highway and passed on the left side of another motorcycle driven by Geraldine Louise Imponen, 24, of 410 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley.

Miss Imponen kept her balance, patrolmen said, but Kuyper hit the curb and flew off his cycle into the fence. The accident occurred about 7:15 p.m.

A third motorcyclist, Leroy Clayton Matthews, 30, of 411 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, then ran into Kuyper's cycle, which was lying on the off-ramp.

Matthews was treated at Marin General Hospital for minor injuries.

Marin Woman Feared Dead In Jump Off Span

A 39-year-old Kentfield woman, Jane Lowry Burton, may have jumped to her death yesterday from the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Mrs. Burton's station wagon was found parked on the westbound upper span of the bridge at 1:25 p.m., officers said.

On the seat of the car was a note indicating depression and a statement that psychiatry was of no use, according to patrol officers.

Mrs. Burton's husband, Neil Taylor Burton, and a babysitter at the family home at 141 Cypress Avenue, told highway patrolmen the woman had been undergoing psychiatric care and had been depressed.

An hour-long search by a Coast Guard air cushion vehicle in the waters under the bridge did not turn up a body.

Mrs. Burton, the descendent of California pioneers, has three daughters. Her husband is a contractor.

Quentin Plan Hearing Tonight

The Larkspur Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on a general plan for the San Quentin Peninsula at its meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at city hall, and not tomorrow, as incorrectly stated in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The general plan is scheduled for hearing at 8:45 p.m. A rezoning application by A. and B. Finnila, to have their go-kart track on the peninsula on East Sir Francis Drake Blvd., rezoned from light industrial to commercial use, is set for 8 p.m.

A plan for large-scale development of Larkspur's territory on the peninsula surprised both officials and residents when it was unveiled last week. It featured multi-story apartments within the Hutchinson Quarry bowl, plus commercial, recreational and office developments.

REDEVELOPMENT

Why Council Worries Of Downtown 'Depreciation'

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON
(Second of three articles)

The assessed valuation of all commercial and industrial property in old San Rafael has increased by only 3 per cent per year since 1968, according to figures prepared by Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel.

This is considerably below the inflation rate for the same period, allowing nothing for the increase caused by new construction.

In this figure is the reason for the San Rafael City Council's concern with what is happening to downtown San Rafael, and its decision to constitute itself a redevelopment agency to try to curb the depreciation in downtown values.

Another set of figures drawn from the assessor's rolls indicates why the redevelopment agency approach, with its underwriting of public improvements from taxes on increased valuation, is considered desirable and perhaps necessary.

In what the San Rafael Redevelopment Plan designates "Action Area B" — the old downtown — plus adjoining Francisco Boulevard industrial-commercial area, are 743 assessor's parcels of property. And these 743 parcels are in 504 separate ownerships.

This makes it very difficult to put together enough property to provide a site for a major store, industrial plant, or even office building with adjacent parking. If the redevelopment plan is adopted, the City of San Rafael (as redevelopment agency) could use money from the taxes funneled to it to buy adjacent parcels and put them together into sites that would be attractive for development.

The 743 parcels in 504 ownerships tells only part of the story. There could be such widely scattered ownership and still be large, usable properties owned by one or a few persons.

However, examination of the rolls shows that within this area, there are only five owners with more than five parcels each — and two of them are public owners.

Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. holds title to 33 of the 743 parcels — mostly pieces of its right-of-way. The City of San Rafael itself owns 23 parcels — most of which are in municipal parking lots. The Smith Brothers (Edward, Michael and Jordan) in various combinations own eight. Eight are held by the State of California — principally acquired in the process of buying right-of-way for widening Highway 101. Eight are owned by California Newspapers Inc. or its affiliate Independent Properties, comprising the site of the Independent-Journal Building and two parking lots.

The I-J Building is far from the only one occupying more than one assessor's parcel. So small are some of these parcels that a Gulf Oil Co. station at 1320 Second Street occupies three, as does an Arco station at 1401 Second Street. LaFargue French Laundry at 1110 Third Street occupies four.

Even ownerships by members of the same family provide few possibilities for grouping small parcels into attractive sites. There are 13 parcels in downtown San Rafael owned by members of the Caletti family, seven owned by members of the Soldavini family, and six owned by members of the McPhail family. But in no case are all of these contiguous. No other family shows ownerships of more than five parcels.

Diverse ownership of small parcels of commercial property has some advantages. Certainly it prevents any individual or small group from controlling what happens to the downtown. But this works both ways: it also prevents any individual or small group from doing much to benefit the downtown. The difficulties that arise from it are well known by Pacific Gas and Electric Co., which has found undergrounding of its lines a slow process because of the many owners who must be dealt with in each downtown block.

This diversity of ownership has stymied efforts of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce at promoting downtown-wide improvement projects. So it has been a contributing couse to the deterioration which the city council feels now calls for the rather extreme measure of underwriting public improvements and buying up properties for resale through freezing tax increases resulting from valuation gains and spending them all on the downtown itself.

Also contributing to the downtown's difficulties is an unrealistic traffic pattern — another problem which the redevelopment program is intended to attack.

When initial development of the East San Rafael lowlands was undertaken more than a decade ago, the entire area to be developed — East San Rafael Assessment District No. 1 — was zoned industrial. It was the hope of both city officials and developers that industry could be attracted to broaden the tax base and improve San Rafael's economic health.

It didn't happen. The owners found they could not dispose of the properties which they had spent large sums to fill, drain, and provide with streets, sewers and utilities. Industries weren't interested.

Forced to borrow money to meet their assessments, the property owners appealed to the city to rezone the area for apartments, for which the land could more readily be sold. Planning commission and city council turned down a series of appeals, stressing that attracting industry had been the primary reason for the assessment district; but at last they yielded to the pleas. The resulting congested apartment district has added to San Rafael's problems.

A principal reason why industries were not interested in the East San Rafael land was lack of access. The city belatedly took a small step to correct that by putting in Bellam Boulevard for a connection via Francisco Boulevard to Highway 101. But the whole canal and East San Rafael area still is not properly linked with the rest of the city.

Loch Lomond, Glenwood and Peacock Gap have a single connection with the downtown via San Pedro Road — and only a roundabout way to get onto the highway. The Terra Linda annexations have no connection with the rest of the city except via the highway.

A new street pattern to correct these deficiencies is seen as essential to arresting the deterioration of East San Rafael and the old downtown. But it is expensive. The city council hopes that by the redevelopment route it can stimulate enough building to make the streets pay for themselves — through new taxes diverted to them.

Marijuana Haul Value Downgraded

San Rafael police said today the street value of 125 kilos of marijuana seized Monday from a man registered at the Bermuda Palms motel is $27,500, and not $127,500 as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Deputy Chief Thomas Stephenson said a slip of paper found on the suspect, C. Lawrence Rutley, placed the value of the marijuana at $220 a kilo.

Stephenson said the value of a kilo — about 2.2 pounds — ranged anywhere from $175 to $225. "As far as I know, this is the biggest marijuana haul in the history of San Rafael," he said.

Rutley, 29, of Philadelphia, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of having marijuana for sale and was held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

WHY PAY EXTRA FOR A CAR WHEN YOU GET MORE FOR YOUR MONEY IN MARIN?

If you're tempted to buy a car in the City or East Bay, put on the brakes and consider: Marin dealers, with much lower overhead, pass you the saving. They're local, you're local. They want your business and will prove it to you both in price and service. Lower sales tax, too! More convenience, a better deal. Makes sense?

Plea Made To Nixon For Father

CHICAGO (UPI) — Lillian Nraske hopes President Nixon can do for her father—the nation's only surviving veteran of the 19th century Indian wars — what she said the Veteran's Administration has not.

Miss Fraske said Monday she is writing Nixon to ask for help in getting a nurse for her ailing father, Fredrak, 98.

"I'm writing the President to tell him I don't think the veterans are being treated right," she said. "I'll ask him how he would like to live on $160 a month for two and pay all bills and medication."

Miss Fraske, 67, has been trying for several months to get local VA officials to respond to her request for assistance. A cardiac patient who has suffered two hearts attacks, Miss Fraske says she needs help in caring for her father who is infirm and practically blind.

"I just need someone to come in a few hours each week to help me with him. He's not strong and growing weaker and weaker," she said. "But all my calls have been in vain."

She said the VA also has returned the receipts for $17 worth of her father's medication bills unpaid.

"They said I could get my father's medicine bills paid by the VA...but when I sent them in, they returned them unpaid," she said. "The bill was only for Dad's eyedrops and his vitamin pills."

Fraske was discharged as a private from the Army after serving three years in Cheyenne, Wyo. Born in Germany, he was brought to the United States at the age of 3. He enlisted after his father died. Miss Fraske said her father told her he lied about his age, telling the Army he was three years older, "so he's probably 101 years old now but we have no birth records from Germany to prove it."

Aides for Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said Monday they were looking into Fraske's case to determine what benefits are owed him.

UAW Feud With G.M. Stepped Up

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The United Auto Workers is nipping at General Motors from all sides.

While negotiations continued at plants in three states Monday, two UAW locals at the Lordstown, Ohio, Vega facility scheduled strike authorization votes later this week—a move almost guaranteed to open old wounds.

The Lordstown workers walked out on the General Motors Assembly Division (GMAD) last spring in a dispute that not only stopped the output of the Vega—GM's response to the flood of smaller Japanese imports—but also established the point of the union's recent quick strike strategy.

That time the issue was assembly line speedup, based on what the union charged were excessive layoffs following an efficiency-bent management takeover by GMAD.

At all the widely scattered GMAD facilities now undergoing negotiations or under the threat of authorized strikes, the issue is the same. Even at those plants not managed by GMAD, the union hopes to prove its members will not succumb to any management moves ic the area of production.

The problem, from the standpoint of the UAW's strike benefit fund, heavily taxed by the recently settled Norwood, Ohio, GMAD walkout—GM's longest—is how to make its point without exhausting resources.

The three-day strikes at plants from coast to coast attempt to show union resistance without costing the strike fund a cent, since benefits are not payable until the second week of a walkout.

At the Janesvile, Wis., GMAD plant, Local 95 leaders said Monday they would seek authority from union headquarters to go out again, after the nearly 5,000 members were scheduled to return to their jobs today. They went on strike Friday, along with the GMAD plants at Kansas, City, Kan., and Arlington, Tex., idling 12,500. Bargaining continues at all three on unresolved issues.

Workers at the St. Louis GMAD facility was among the first three GM plants to walk out. Workers there already have gone back to work, but also have set new strike deadlines of Thursday or Friday, in league with union locals at GM's Hamilton, Ohio, stamping plant and GMAD at Leeds, Mo.

Comic Strip Is Hit With Big Term Paper Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A $6 million damage suit has been filed against a comic strip by a firm which provides term paper help to college and graduate students.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court Monday by Termpaper Library, Inc., based in Washington, D.C., against the authors of the Steve Roper comic strip, Publishers Hall Syndicate, and The Washington Post, which carries the strip.

Termpaper Library contended the comic strip depicted the term paper profession as engaged in "a low and unlawful enterprise" and as "criminal types."

The comic strip sequence cited in the suit dealt with the murder of a college professor by hoodlums hired by a term paper operator because the professor was lobbying for legislation to outlaw such businesses.

McGovern Aide Salutes Boss On Viet Stand

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—If a Vietnam peace settlement is reached before the election, the credit must substantially go to Sen. George McGovern, the senator's campaign director says.

Frank Mankiewicz said in a telephone interview Monday that even if President Nixon is re-elected, McGovern will have made a significant contribution to the nation.

"Without his opposition (to the war), the Vietnam situation would be much worse than it is," Mankiewicz said. "If we have a peace settlement before election day, it will be to the credit of Senator McGovern."

Survivor Of Attack May Continue Walk

WASECA, Minn. (UPI)—David Kunst, wounded in a bandit attack which killed his brother in Afghanistan during the weekend, says he'd like to continue his round-the-world walk on behalf of UNICEF.

Speaking by telephone to his wife, Jan, his three children and his parents in Waseca, Minn., Monday, Kunst said, "I have not made any commitment" about continuing the walk, "but I'm thinking about it."

Kunst, 33, was speaking from a U.S. hospital in Kabul, the Afghan capital, where he was reported in satisfactory condition with a gunshot wound in the chest.

"We were aware that something like this might happen," David told his family. "We talked about it often and we both always hoped that if one was hurt, the other would continue."

The Kunst brothers were more than half way round the world with a wagon and a mule when they were set upon by bandits near Sarobi, about 30 miles east of Kabul.

David told his family that he was hit once, in the chest, by bandit gunfire, and that John, 25, was struck twice, once in the chest and again in the neck. David said he heard John cry: "This is stupid, you dummies. Police!"

"I felt his pulse," David said, "and I figured he was dead."

He said he and his brother were camped along the edge of a road Saturday night when they saw six bandits stop a truck, beat the truck's two occupants and loot its contents. When David fired a warning shot from his single-shot rifle, the bandits began shooting at the brothers and rushed the campsite.

According to a State Department spokesman, David reported that he feigned death for about 30 minutes while the bandits ransacked the brothers' mule-drawn wagon.

David tried to mount the mule to go for help, but "that didn't work," he told his family. About five hours later, he was found by police, who were apparently alerted by the truck drivers.

The brothers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Kunst of Clear Lake, Iowa, drove to David's home in Waseca after they received word of the attack from David's wife Sunday morning. Jan Kunst had been informed by the State Department.

Sources in Waseca said the family does not know how much money the brothers had raised for UNICEF since beginning the 15,000-mile trek in June 1970.

New Galaxy Discovered; A Puzzle To Astronomers

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—A gathering of astronomers was told Monday a galaxy has been discovered that appears to be expanding at a rate faster than the speed of light—theoretically an impossibility.

The meeting of the high energy astrophysics division of the American Astronomical Society also heard a description of "young galaxies" only one one-hundredth asold as most of the others in the universe.

Both discoveries leave astronomers with new puzzles to solve, the speakers said.

The fast-moving galaxy was revealed by Dr. Kenneth I. Kellerman, of the National Radio Astronomy Observatory at Green Bank, W. Va.

It has been a fundamental law of physics that the speed of light, 186 million miles per second, is the fastest anything can move.

Recently however, astronomers have discovered that quasars—mysterious star like objects discovered nine years ago—seemingly expand and contract at faster speeds. Researchers feel that is probably impossible, however, and have been searching for explanations of the illusion.

Chinese Show Some Knowledge Of U.S.

SHANGHAI (UPI)—Lu Ming-teng knows that Spiro Agnew is vice president of the United States and that George McGovern is the Democratic candidate trying to unseat President Nixon.

But he also thinks that there are only 22 states in the United States, that the population is "over 100 million" and that workers are so oppressed they are struggling to rise in revolt. Or so he says.

Still, though, the young Chinese probably is much better informed about the United States than are most Americans about China.

Lu, 28, is a member of the Revolutionary Committee of Shanghai's Whangpoo District.

Since President Nixon's visit to China (including Shanghai) last February, Lu and many of his colleagues and friends in this populous district of China's largest city have been reading more about the United States.

They've also been talking more about it, in some of the political study sessions that such committees hold frequently.

"We've also been meeting more American friends," Lu said, while conducting me and UPI photographer David Kennerly on a tour of Shanghai's main People's Park to watch some of the National Day (Oct. 1) activities.

"The visit of President Nixon to China was a great event for our two peoples," Lu said, adding hastily that he and his countrymen still disapprove of Nixon's policies on Vietnam and Taiwan.

"We are sure that these policies eventually will change," he said.

In expressing his views of the United States and discussing these and other issues of American policy, Lu gives the stereotyped reply that you hear constantly from everyone in China, from the top leadership to the lowliest factory worker: the American people are a good and great people. They are friendly towards China. Only the American government, which is in the hands of a few power-mad capitalists and warmongers, is bad. But this will surely change and the American people will seize power.

"Do you really understand the political system of the United States?" you ask Lu. "Do you believe there is such a gap between the American people and their government? Don't you know that the people elect the government and frequently turn one group out of office in favor of another? Don't you believe that these elections are held freely?"

"Yes," Lu replies, "but power is usurped by a few."

Sitting on the grass in front of a temporary stage where acrobats are performing, you watch a bicycle act. It includes a comedy scene where a marksman shoots blanks at a colleague dressed in a khaki military-type uniform with a target pinned on his chest and wearing a helmet with "U.S." stenciled in white on both sides.

It is the only anti-American sight, and one of the few political scenes, that you will see during a three-hour tour of performances in the huge park which once was a race course for the rich in the fabled days of old Shanghai.

"If you Chinese want to improve relations with the United States and want to develop friendship as you say," you ask Lu "why do you persist in putting on such acts?"

After a long pause, Lu replies, "Well, we still oppose your war policies in Indochina and you still have troops occupying China's territory, Taiwan."

"Of course," Lu says, "we know that the American people oppose your government's policies on these issues."

Then, before you can ask another question, Lu quickly says, "Now, let me ask you some questions about China.

Connally's Promise On Vietnam Fighting

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John B. Connally, chairman of Democrats for Nixon, has promised U.S. warplanes and ships will not be removed from the Vietnam battle zone until the last American prisoner of war is released.

Connally said ina paid political telecast Monday night that Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern would "take it on faith" that Hanoi would release the prisoners, and if that didn't work "do a little begging to Hanoi."

"...President Nixon has another way," Connally said. "If he is re-elected I can promise the American people this: The last American warplanes will not leave South Vietnam, the last American warship will not sail out of the Tonkin Gulf—unless and until they have every single one of our American prisoners aboard."

Poll Shows Many Back Prop. 17

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Poll reported today that a substantial majority of potential voters support Proposition 17, the measure to restore the death penalty.

But the poll also reported that only 20 per cent of the public acknowledged they had heard of the measure, which will be on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Of the group that was aware of the measure, 68 per cent supported it and 28 per cent opposed while those to whom the measure was new supported it by a 60-27 margin with 13 per cent undecided on first impression.

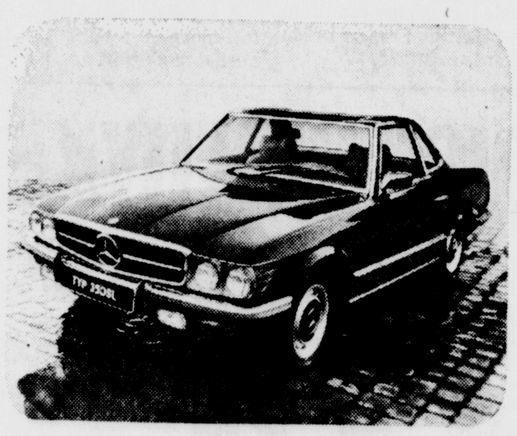
"One of the ten best cars in the world."
—Road & Track



Lightning reflexes, vivid performance and lush comfort can exist in one car: the new Mercedes-Benz 350SL has earned widespread plaudits by providing them all. An uncanny blend of sports car dash and limousine poise, powered by a 4.5-litre overhead-cam V-8, mounted on an independent suspension, fitted with 4-wheel disc brakes. Air conditioning and 3-speed automatic shift are standard equipment. Very few cars today deserve the term "breathtaking." This is one of them.

Baseball Great Jackie Robinson Dies Of An Apparent Heart Attack

STAMFORD, Conn. (UPI)—Hall of Famer Jackie Robinson, the first black man to break the color barrier in the major leagues, died here today of an apparent heart attack.

Robinson, 53, retired from professional sports in 1956, after playing with the Brooklyn Dodgers and devoted himself to black economic development. But his family life was marked with tragedy and he saw his only son, Jack Jr., wrestle with drug addiction and finally die.

He was born in Cairo, Ga. and christened Jack Roosevelt Robinson. He was graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles in 1940. He was named all around west coast champion He was commissioned in the U.S. Army serving as a morale officer overseas.

In 1947, he was placed on the Dodgers lineup, ending the segregation of major and Negro leagues in professional baseball. During his 10 years with the Dodgers, he set many records as a batter and was named Rookie of the Year.

Jackie Robinson was the kind of ball player who could, and often did, beat the opposition four different ways—with a long ball, a perfectly placed bunt, a stolen base during a vital point in the game, or his fielding.

When Branch Rickey, then boss of the Brooklyn Dodgers, signed him to a contract with the Montreal farm club, Oct. 23, 1945, thereby making Robinson the first Negro to play in organized baseball, Robinson admitted he was somewhat uneasy.

"I do not want to be where I'm not wanted," he said even as he signed the contract.

Robinson realized he was a "human guinea pig" but he won acceptance by both opponents and team-mates alike on his brilliant accomplishments alone.

Signed from the Kansas City Monarchs of the Negro National League, Robinson made the switch from shortstop to second base with comparative ease. In his first game with Montreal, April 18, 1946, he walloped a three-run homer against Jersey City for one of the four hits the Royals collected all afternoon.

It was a foregone conclusion that Robinson would be brought up to the parent Brooklyn club in 1947 after he led the International League with a .349 batting average during his rookie year, and, of course, he was.

He expected considerable resentment from players around the National League and he got it. But Rickey had hammered home to him the necessity of "turning the other cheek."

"I want a man", Rickey told him, "with guts enough not to fight back."

Robinson batted .297 as a Dodger rookie and did not fight back. He batted .296 the following year and then won the National League batting title with a .342 average in 1949. In time, he felt sufficiently established to remonstrate with umpires when he thought they had made the wrong call. When criticized for his comebacks, he would reply:

"I'm a human being: I have a right to talk, haven't I?"

Dodger players treated him as "one of the boys" while enemy pitchers treated him with the respect he won from them with his bat alone. Most important from Robinson's standpoint was the fact that his success "opened the door" for other Negroes to play in the majors and in the minors.

Seeing "the Robinson experiment" succeed, the Cleveland Indians signed outfielder Larry Doby late in 1947, making Doby the first negro ever to play in the American League. The Dodgers signed other Negro players like Roy Campanella, Don Newcombe, Dan Bankhead and Joe Black and gradually most of the other clubs followed suit.

Frustrated 49er Fans' Questions

The search continues. Everyone wants to know why the 49ers, division champions the last two years, look more like a team destined for the cellar.

It's certain the team and its coaching staff don't have the answer. Thirty-nine of the 49er Faithfuls, members of the 49er Goal Rushers of Marin, tried to pry some answers from guard Woody Peoples yesterday at the booster club's luncheon at Holiday Inn.

What is the team's biggest weakness? came the question. The quick answer from Peoples: "We are not winning." But program moderator Dave Scofield, public address announcer for the 49ers, dug deeper when he asked Woody WHY the team was not winning.

"IF WE KNEW we wouldn't be losing," answered Peoples, 258-pound five-year pro out of Grambling College. But he did promise the faithful followers one thing: "We will start winning. There is going to be a complete turnaround."

Peoples said there was "some intangible something" the team is lacking. "You can't just go out and play football," he said. "Emotions are 80 per cent of the game." And as Peoples and his playmates now realize, the team just doesn't have it.

When questioned about the team's drive and desire, Peoples said, "I can only speak for myself. I'm doing everything in my power to win."

PEOPLES IS one of that rare breed who walk into a team's camp as a free agent and make the team. After his college days at Grambling, Woody spent a couple of years in the Army and then came to the Niners' camp prior to the 1968 season. A starter at right guard the past three years, he hasn't missed a game.

Scofield also asked Peoples to tell the audience — all white — what it was like to play football at an all-black college.

"Most black colleges don't have the funds to have superior athletic programs, but I was fortunate to go to Grambling. It has one of the best athletic departments in the country." Woody proudly told the audience that Grambling is second only to Notre Dame in number of players to go on to professional football.

The questions from the boosters started showing the frustrations of your typical fan. "Why does wide receiver Dick Witcher continue to be a starter since he's only caught two passes all season and they never throw to him?" Another: "Why is Frank Nunley, (middle linebacker) having his poorest season as a pro?" These kind of questions, of course, can't be answeredbyanother player. Second-guessing coaches has been known to cost athletes theirjobs. Woody is paid to block, not decide on who to make up the starting teams.

BOOSTERS WANTED to know why the team couldn't get psychologically ready for the games, and Peoples, as have other players in the past who talked to the club, said it was up to the individual players to get themselves ready.

"I haven't counted us out of it (the race) yet," said Peoples. "We always seem to play best when we're the underdog. I'm really glad to see people are still behind us. I am very thankful for that."

Another loss against Atlanta Sunday and there won't be too many fans around to say, "You're welcome, Woody."

Vikings' Coach Is Outraged

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bud Grant, the usually taciturn Minnesota coach, thought his team was beaten by a rotten call Monday night—and, up to a point, Abe Gibron of the Chicago Bears agreed with him.

But they agreed on little else after the Bears survived a frenzied finish to beat the Vikings 13-10 in the National Football League's weekly television special.

What angered Grant and surprised Gibron was a penalty for an illegal receiver downfield that nullified an apparent winning touchdown pass by Fran Tarkenton with20 seconds to go—a penalty which Grant insisted was called unbelievably late.

"There was no flag when the play was consummated," Grant claimed.

"We already had the extra point team on the field," Tarkenton added.

Gibron sided with Grant, momentarily—"If there was an ineligible man down the field, I don't know who he was," Gibron said—but then he did a neat about-face and said the officials should have called a different penalty.

"It should have been called back because Tarkenton was past the line of scrimmage," Gibson said.

Although the argument may go on forever, at least one man on the field was certain the call was correct. Bob Jeter, inserted in the Chicago secondary only a play earlier because of an injury, said he spotted Minnesota left guard Ed White in

INGLEWOOD

Seals Face Kings In 1st Clash

INGLEWOOD (UPI) — The California Golden Seals and the Los Angeles Kings find themselves in their usual battle to escape the cellar as they ready for their first meeting of the year at the Forum tonight.

Actually, while Los Angeles is at 2-6 and four points and the Seals 1-4-1 and three points, there is a trio of teams knotted with five points so both teams in tonight's clash can still entertain hopes for advancement.

The Seals fell 4-2 to Chicago Sunday and Walt McKechnie, who scored one of two California goals, suggested after the contest that the Seals would have been a contender this season if they hadn't lost several key players to the New World Hockey Association.

"It's just too bad the way (Seals coach and general manager) Garry Young built this team up and then lost Gerry Pinder, Paul Shmyr and Tom Webster to the WHA," he commented.

Tanner Is Manager Of Year In A.L.

CHICAGO (AP) — Towards the end of the regular American League season, Billy Martin of the Detroit Tigers told Chuck Tanner of the Chicago White Sox: "It's got to be either you or me for Manager of the Year."

That was disclosed today by Tanner, who was named Monday the AL Manager of the Year in an Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters. The White Sox finished 5½ games behind the Oakland A's, newly crowned World champions, in the AL West race.

"If you win, I'll send you a congratulatory wire, and if I win, you can send me one," is the way Martin was quoted by Tanner.

It turned out Tanner received 213 votes to capture the coveted honor, while Eddie Kasko of the Boston Red Sox collected 140, and Martin was third with 66.

The poll, completed prior to the opening of the major league playoffs, ranked Dick Williams of the Oakland A's fifth with 24 votes, behind Ralph Houk of the NewYork Yankees, fourth with 38.

Tanner, in only his second full major league season, made a season-long run at the Oakland A's mainly with a three-man show — Dick Allen, Wilbur Wood and Carlos May.

The charismatic Tanner, once a journeyman big league outfielder, accepted the Manager of the Year honor with complete surprise.

"Is that right?" he kept repeating when informed of his selection. "What do you say? I'm very grateful and it's a big thrill to me. I have to credit the whole White Sox organization, from the scouts to the players who did the job."

EARNINGS FOR SERIES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Although it hasn't been made official by the commissioner's office yet, the winning and losing shares to be received by members of the Oakland Athletics and Cincinnati Reds will establish a new World Series record.

Each member of the A's who is awarded a full share will get about $21,000 while the Red players have close to $15,000 per man coming to them.

The previous mark was established in 1970 when the Reds played the Baltimore Orioles. That year the winning share was $18,700.

150,000 FANS ATTEND

Joyous Welcoming Parade For A's

OAKLAND (AP) — Women fainted but did not fall. The press of the crowd kept them upright until they revived as 150,000 ecstatic Oaklanders lined the streets to welcome home the triumphant A's with their World Series championship.

It was a warm day, and for all the rejoicing and near-hysteria that accompanied the 15-block parade from Lake Merrit to the civic center, Monday's crowd was orderly except when it surged into the street to touch the passing heroes.

"The crowd is so dense the parade just can't get through," radioed police officers. "We tried to budge them, but they just won't move."

But the jams lasted only moments, and the parade made its way through storms of rising balloons and falling paper serpentine and confetti.

In the procession were more than 100 antique autos, assorted marching bands and ranks of baton twirlers and cheerleaders working the 10-deep crowd to ever dizzier heights of celebration. Police Chief Charles Gain estimated the crowd at 150,000.

Cheers went up for everybody on the team, from bat boy Ron Pieraldi to owner Charles O. Finley.

"This is a happy day for Oakland," understated Mayor John Reading as he handed over a plaque to Finley inscribed "To the Swinging Owner of the A's." Manager Dick Williams got one dedicated to "The Genius Manager of the A's." Each player got an engraved pewter plate, the bat boy got a trophy, and the mascot mule, Charley O, was decked with balloons and presented with a bag of victory oats.

Balloons also decorated the motorcycles of the goodnatured police officers who handled the record crowd, swollen because

Underdog Role For The 49ers

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers find themselves underdogs for the first time this season as they ready for Sunday's test at tough Atlanta.

But that might be a welcome switch, since they are only 2-3-1 after being favorites for their first six games.

"A win over Atlanta would put us right back in the race," says coach Dick Nolan.

Quarterback John Brodie was joined on the sidelines last Sunday by defensive tackle Earl Edwards, who twisted his right forefoot early in the 20-20 tie with New Orleans.

Also battling injuries are defensive end Tommy Hart (pinched shoulder nerve), receiver Gene Washington (sprained elbow), strong safety Mel Phillips (twisted ankle) and cornerback Jimmy Johnson (lacerated lip).

Brodie is out, Edwards is doubtful and the other four probable for the Falcons.

Offensive tackle Cas Banaszek was forced to go the entire way against the Saints even though he suffered a groin hemmorhage against the New York Giants the preceding Sunday. Doctors felt it would be wise to give John Watson another week to recover from the concussion received last Sunday against New York.

Golf

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — The 1972 Del Webb Pro-Am preceding the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament was to have three prominent baseball entries vying with such pro golfing stars as Jack Nicklaus.

Cincinnati's catcher Johnny Bench and the New York Mets' shortstop Bud Harrelson along with Hall of Fame New York Yankee Joe DiMaggio were entered in the two-day pro-am which started today.

The 72-hole invitational starts Thursday with Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and defending champion Lee Trevino among those entered.

SACRAMENTO — Lee Elder fired a course record 63 Monday at Del Paso Country Club to win the $11,000 Gene Littler Charity Golf Tournament.

Elder had nine birdies and no bogies on his hot round, which was worth $2,000 to the touring pro. Hale Erwin had a 66 and Bob Lunn a 67 while pro-am teams led by pros Mike Hill and Frank Beard tied for team honors at 122.

Baseball

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Pirates announced Monday that infielders Bill Mazeroski and Jose Pagan, a former San Francisco Giant, have been placed on waivers for the purposes of obtaining their unconditional releases.

Earlier the National League baseball club had announced Mazerosky would be a coach in 1973, replacing Frank Oceak. Pagan, a club spokesman said, would be offered a managerial post in the club's farm system.

Pagan, 37, was obtained from the Giants in 1965 in a trade for infielder Dick Schofield. He is a native of Barclonetta, Puerto Rico.

PIKESVILLE, Md. — American League security chief Henry Fitzgibbon was to meet with Maryland officials today to discuss the names of 11 baseball umpires found in an address book during a Baltimore gambling raid Sept. 25.

The names of the umpires were found in three address books confiscated by police at the home of Albert C. Isella Sr., of Baltimore. Seven of the men are still umpiring, two are dead and two are retired. None has been publicly identified.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said over the weekend "there is no indication of any wrong-doing on the part of the umpires."

Fitzgibbon will meet with Col. Thomas S. Smith, state police superintendent; Samuel A. Green Sr., state's attorney for Baltimore County, and other legal representatives.

Tennis

BARCELONA, Spain — Dan Kodes of Czechoslovakia defeated Spain's Manuel Orantes 6-3, 6-2, 6-3 to win the singles title in the Spanish International Championship.

One skater, four-year veteran Shirley Browning said, "He's laid off a lot of kids with experience because he says he doesn't have the money. We are asking that our minimum pay be raised from $2,500 to $6,000 and that all those kids with experience be hired back.

PAST AND PRESENT

Study Of A's Bosses Finley, Mack

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Williams honestly can't understand why people keep coming around and telling him how sorry they feel for him because he has to make his living working for Charlie Finley.

The reason people say that is because CHarlie Finley can be tyrannical and despotic at times, particularly with people who work for him, and perfectly oblivious of them on other occasions because helices to do everything himself.

The last time a major league baseball club known as the A's won a world championship was back in 1930, and curiously, although the club represented Philadelphia then, and not Oakland, it also became synonymous with a strong-willed individual who liked to do everything himself.

Like Charlie Finley, this man was Irish and saw no real reason why he couldn't run the show himself, be his own treasurer, general manager, field manager, the whole works. The comparison grinds to a halt right there.

Nobody will ever mistake Charlie Finley for another Connie Mack. Not that Finley doesn't have his supporters, but they're not in the same league with old Connie Mack's.

"I was associated with Connie nine years, and there was no better man in the world," says Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, his former southpaw ace who's 72 now, lives in Norwalk, Ohio, and was Charlie Finley's guest at the World Series.

"I never heard him swear," says Grove, talking about Mack, his old manager, not Finley, his new benefactor. "He never interfered with the way I pitched.

"In my day, there'd be a meeting of the whole team before every game and they'd go over the hitters, but when I pitched there'd be no meeting. Why? Because I'd pitch my own ball game. (Mickey) Cochrane would catch it, and I'd pitch it, that's all."

Pitching the way he liked, Lefty Grove won 300 games and wound up in baseball's Hall of Fame.

But pitching and managing are two different things, and there isn't an owner alive who doesn't make certain "suggestions" occasionally to his manager, usually through the general manager.

Charlie Finley doesn't have to go through his general manager because he doesn't have one. He acts as his own.

They were talking about that to Dick Williams before Sunday's finale with the Reds in Cincinnati and the A's' manager said he didn't consider that a problem at all.

"I'm in the ideal position for a manager," he said. "I have only one man to deal with."

Finley always likes to be on top of things. What about him being in the clubhouse so much?

"He's the general manager, isn't he?" Williams pointed out. "Besides, he isn't in there that often. He is, here, because there's something doing."

What about all these "suggestions" of his?

"He asks questions, good puestions, and I'd better have the answers or else I'm not worth a damn as a manager," said Williams.

Okay then, said the newsman, hypothetical question:

"What if Finley told you to play Mike Epstein at first base today?"

"If it's a hypothetical question, then the hypothetical answer is I'll still make out the lineup the way I want," Williams came back brightly.

That ended that.

year in 1947 and the most valuable player in the National League in 1949. He also led the league in stolen bases those two years and was virtually a "steady" on the N. L.(All-Star team from the time he came up.

Although he signed for the near minimum upon joining the Dodgers, his salary rose as high as $40,000 by 1953. Exhibiting excellent business judgment, he made considerable money in radio, television and magazine ventures.

Pee Wee Reese, who played alongside of Robinson in the Brooklyn Dodger infield, was worried about Jackie's health when he saw him at the second game of the World Series in Cincinnati more than a week ago.

"I was quite concerned about his health when I saw him at the Series," said Reese, who was Robinson's double play partner at shorstop. "He seemed to be quite feeble, completely blind in one eye and only partial sight in the other.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn expressed his sorrow Tuesday upon learning of the death of baseball immortal Jackie Robinson and described the Dodger great as a man "who's life was one of total courage."

NEW YORK (AP) — When the Atlanta Braves visited Shea Stadium for their last three 1972 games in New York against the Mets, the players on the field showed a total of 84 home runs. Villapiano Surprised By Denver's Passing

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders had Veterans Day off to ponder the excitement over the baseball A's and the vagaries of fate, including how the Denver Broncos could pile up a 24-3 halftime lead and hang on for a 30-23 final score victory last Sunday.

"I didn't think anyone could pass against us like that," said linebacker Phil Villapiano of Denver's Charley Johnson, who completed 20 of 28 aerials for 361 yards as the Broncs upended the Raiders for the first time in a decade.

"It was embarrassing," said Villapiano. "But he did a great job of play calling and passing."

Raider attention was focused on the situation personified by strong safety George Atkinson, who stands 5-10 in the showers but was outjumped and outbumped Sunday by Denver's Billy Masters and Riley Odoms, who stand 6-5 and 6-4 respectively and outweigh Atkinson by more than 50 pounds. Between them the two tight ends caught five passes for 112 yards.

of the Veterans Day holiday and called "the best crowd Oakland has ever seen," by Deputy Police Chief George T. Hart.

At the speakers stand, where the players and their families were introduced to the hoarse throng, a special ovation went up for outfielder Reggie Jackson, who appeared on crutches because of an injury suffered in the final American League playoff game that sent the A's to their final triumph over Cincinnati.

Greetings from Gov. Ronald Reagan, who was out of the state, were read by his executive secretary Edwin Meese III, who was booed every time he mentioned the governor's name.

The parade followed a delirious Sunday night welcome home at Oakland International Airport by an estimated 25,000 fans who so congested the airport and its approaches that all motor traffic was sealed off for hours. After the team had arrived and gone home for the night, spin-off crowds of celebrants continued their revels at Jack London Square and in downtown Oakland, but police reported only a few arrests for drunkenness.

As guests of owner Finley, the A's and their wives attended a quiet victory celebration Monday night to wine and dine their triumph into history.

The Corinthian Yacht Club will hold its seventh annual Coast Guard Appreciation Day Sunday from noon to 3 p.m. at the club in Tiburon.

Grant Is Outraged After Loss To Bears the end zone and made sure the officials saw him.

Despite the penalty, which wiped out a neat bit of scrambling by Tarkenton and a five-yard TD pitch to John Beasley, the sagging Vikings still had a chance to escape with a tie.

But Fred Cox blew a 27-yard field goal with seven seconds left, his second costly lastsecond failure this month (he missed a 26-yarder against St. Louis with four seconds to play Oct. 8) and Minnesota, considered a prime Super Bowl contender at the start of the season, found itself in last place in the National Football Conference's Central Division.

The victory was the second in a row after three losses and a tie for the Bears, who controlled the ball for a mind-boggling 25 minutes, 45 seconds in the first half, running off 41 plays to nine for the Vikings.

The Bears' ball-control tactics were helped by such things as a fake field goal, on which quarterback Bobby Douglass ran for a first down; a fake punt, on which kicker Bobby Joe Green hit Cecil Turner with a 23-yard pass, and a stout defense led by Dick Butkus. Butkus stopped two drives with a fumble recovery and an interception.

The Vikings scored first, getting their touchdown early in the first quarter on a 44-yard pass from Tarkenton to John Gilliam.

Mac Percival kicked a 21-yard field goal on the first play of the second quarter for the Bears and later, after Butkus' fumble recovery, they went 59 yards for their touchdown. Jim Harrison, the game's top runner with 103 yards in 31 carries, scored on a four-yard pass from Douglass seven plays after the successful fake field goal.

Cox tied the score 10-10 on a 21-yard field goal near the end of the third quarter. Percival put the Bears ahead 13-10 with a 20-yarder with 5:51 left in the game on a drive started by Butkus' interception.

Then Tarkenton, who threw a winning touchdown pass against Denver with 17 seconds to play last week, coolly completed six straight passes as he marched the Vikings downfield.

But it was his seventh completion, the one to Beasley, which the Vikings needed and did not get.

Haves Wrecking Best Hopes Of NBA Have-Nots

BOSTON (UPI) —The haves keep wrecking the best hopes of the have-nots.

The haves, in this case the Boston Celtics, played sluggish ball for two periods again Monday afternoon and then turned on the fast break to overpower the Philadelphia 76ers, 105-85, in a National Basketball Association game.

The win enabled the unbeaten Celtics to raise their season record to 7-0. The 76ers are 0-6. There were no other games scheduled Monday in the NBA.

The 76ers made a game of it for the first 26 minutes, leading 50-48 at haltime and increasing the margin to 55-50 with two minutes gone in the third period on the shooting of Fred Carter and John Block.

But the Celtics turned the game around in the next four minutes on a three-point play by Dave Cowens, a pair of baskets and a free throw by Don Chaney and two fast break scores from Jo Jo White that put Boston in front for keeps at 62-61 with 5:59 left in the third period.

Football Success Running In The Family Of Magers

By LEW CODDINGTON

When star running back Leo Magers was graduated from Novato High School last spring, opponents around the Marin County Athletic League breathed a large, collective sigh of relief. Now, it appears they breathed too soon.

Leo has a younger brother by the name of Mark, who is an authentic star in his own right, and proved it last Friday in Novato's 34-0 victory over Tamalpais. The junior tailback gained 101 yards in the first half and 128 for the game and became the Independent-Journal Prep of the Week.

MAGERS
Running star

At 5-feet-9½ and 155 pounds, Magers has slender shoulders, but he carries a large burden on them. He is the workhorse of the MCAL with 77 carries in three games, and its rushing leader with 299 yards — not bad for somebody who was a second-stringer as late as the last week of September.

"I told the coach (Al Scott) I thought I could start, and he gave me a break in practice," Magers said. "He proved he could do the job," Scott said.

Magers started the crucial game against Terra Linda, ground out 74 yards against a tough defense, and earned his place in the lineup.

Brother Leo, who was only about 10 pounds heavier than Mark, currently is a flanker and running back for the University of Arizona freshmen.

So Mark is following in Leo's footsteps. But he also follows in the footsteps of Mark Lipe, Novato's fullback. "He leads the blocking for me on almost every play," said Magers. "I've played three years with him, and he's really a dedicated football player."

Magers' father, Leo, is a Lieutenant Colonel in the Air Force stationed at Hamilton Field. (To answer the obvious: yes, before he was a Colonel, he was Major Magers.) Like other offspring of military personnel, Mark has been around: he was born in Mississippi and has lived in Texas, Massachusetts and Okinawa.

"Even if my father is transferred again, we'll stay, because we like it here," said Mark. "So I'll go to Novato again next year."

There are two other young Magers, and both are involved in football. Brad, in the seventh grade, is a player and sister Lynn, 16, is a varsity cheerleader.

At 17, Mark has been thinking about college, but hasn't yet decided where he'll go. "I'd like to get into psychology," he said. "My mother (Betty) is a psychologist at the hospital out at Hamilton."

For now, though, the psychology can wait, as Mark devotes himself to one of the most simple and straightforward activities around: three yards and a clump of mud (it's the rainy season) 25 times a game.

2 MARIN NET STARS

John Zwieg of Greenbrae finished sixth and Barry MacKay of Ross seventh in the Northern California Tennis Association Player of the Year competition.

Rich Anderson, tennis coach at Canada College in Redwood City, won the award with 475 points. Zwieg had 280 and MacKay 250.

The top eight players are entitled to compete in the Windsor Canadian Tournament of Champions Friday through Sunday at the Berkeley Tennis Club. They include Greg Shephard (330 points), Henry Kamakana (310), Roscoe Tanner (300), Chuck Darley (285), Alex Mayer (225), Anderson, Zwieg and MacKay.

Golfer Greene Shoots Himself

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Golfer Bert Greene accidentally shot himself in the right foot Sunday while packing his car after failing to make the cut in the Kaiser International Open.

Green, 28, of Tallahassee, Fla., and Sun River, Ore., was taken to a local hospital where doctors said the bullet passed through the foot without hitting any bones or tendons. He was described in "good condition."

Greene was loading the trunk of his car when a hand pistol went off. The golfer had been hunting in Oregon two weeks ago and kept the 30-caliber luger in the trunk.

Squaw Valley Predicted Site Of 1976 Olympics: Observer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A man intimately involved in the international ski scene for 35 years, John Jay, says he does not think the 1976 Winter Olympics will come off near Denver as scheduled.

Jay is betting the quadrennial snow and ice carnival will be moved to Squaw Valley, Calif., site of the 1960 Winter Olympics.

Jay makes his living introducing the wonders of skiing to novices and whetting the appetites of advocates.

The summer resident of Williamstown, Mass., who resides on the ski trails of the globe for the rest of the year, is in Omaha for showings of his film, "Skiing 'Round the World."

His views on the controversial plans for staging the next Winter Games on the eastern slopes of the Rockies near Denver:

"The mood is not good for Denver. It's the whole ecology thing. There are bumper stickers all over demanding that they kick the Olympics out. Personally, I don't think it will ever be held in Denver.

"I think they (the Denver Olympic Committee) will give up and throw it up for grabs. I think it will go to Squaw Valley. They're going ahead with plans there like they're going to get it, just in case. They're planning for huge hydrofoils to carry people across Lake Tahoe.

"I filmed the last Olympics at Squaw, and it was the best there's ever been. It (the Olympics) has gotten so far out of hand with commercialism. Everybody has to make a buck.

"If they can recapture the spirit of Squaw . . . that was what the Olympics is all about."

ABA Points Lead Held By Thompson Of Memphis

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite its reputation of being a high scoring league, the American Basketball Association has no 30-point per game scorers yet this year and only seven players with averages above 20 points per game.

George Thompson of Memphis dropped from 35 points per game to 26, but he stillleads the ABA scoring list, according to figures released Monday by the ABA. Willie Wise of Utah (24.5) is second. Billy Cunningham of Carolina (22.8) is third, Ralph Simpson of Denver (22.2) is fourth and Ollie Taylor of San Diego (21.8).

Bill Melchionni, who's been playing superbly for the New York Nets, remains the assist leader with 11.7 per game. Jerry Chambers has so far been perfect from the free throw line with 21 straight to hold the edge in that department.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Difference Mostly Due To Semantics

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you please explain the difference between preferred and preference stock?—L.E.

A. This distinction is largely a matter of semantics. Preferred stock is that class of stock which has preference over the common. Preference stock, on the other hand, may include guaranteed, preferred or class "A" stock. It is implied, usually in relation to dividends and/or bankruptcy, that these shareholders are offered advantages not given to common shareholders.

In order to ascertain the peculiar properties of a particular preferred or preference stock, the terms of the contract under which it was issued must be studied. For example, Champion International offers a $5.50 cumulative preferred and a $1.20 convertible cumulative preference stock. The former has preference over the latter, which in turn precedes the common, as to dividend payments.

A similar treatment is accorded the shareholders in case of bankruptcy. The higher yielding straight preferred carries a BBB rating versus a BB rating for the convertible preference shares. The difference in rating reflects the senior standing of the $5.50 preferred rather than the difference in its title.

Q. We hold 100 shares of Norfolk and Western (NYSE) purchased at $138. We would appreciate your opinion on selling or holding on longer.—F.F.

Q. I purchased Norfolk & Western years ago at $98. Should I buy another 100 shares now?—B.D.

A. Shares have moderate appreciation potential but are primarily attractive for their generous 7.3 per cent return. Depsite the bankruptcy of Erie-Lackawana, one of the companies held by N&W's Dereco subsidiary, the dividend appears secure since the parent is not obligated to meet Erie's debts. However, tax benefits from the subsidiary's operating losses do accrue to Norfolk.

Earnings projections of $9 a share are predicated on a rising traffic level, additional frieght rate relief, investment tax credits and continued cost cutting. With this in view, F.F. would be wise to continue holding. Unless you, B.D., are interested primarily in income, I would sit tight.

Homestead Net Earnings Reported

Homestead Financial Corp. of San Francisco, holding company for Homestead Savings and Loan Association, has reported net earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30, of $190,285 or 29 cents per share. This compares with earnings of $135,731 or 20 cents per share for the same quarter in 1971.

Earnings for the first nine months of this year were $581,511 or 87 cents per share.

Tiburon Vintners Earnings Announced

Tiburon Vintners Inc. has announced earnings of $465,000 or 68 cents per share for the fiscal year ended July 31.

This compared with earnings of $251,600 or 46 cents per share the previous year.

Nation's Businessmen View Jobs Outlook

Twenty per cent of the nation's businessmen expect employment to increase during the fourth quarter of 1972, according to an independent survey conducted by Manpower, Inc., international temporary help organization headquartered in Milwaukee.

Of those polled, 64 per cent predict no change in employment needs during the rest of the calendar year. Seven per cent expect a decrease, while the remaining nine per cent "don't know."

Elmer L. Winter, president of Manpower, said the predictions are more optimistic than those in a similar survey for the fourth quarter of 1971, when only 15 per cent forecast increased employment and 10 per cent anticipated a decrease.

Of those predicting increases, industries with the highest percentages are retail department stores (42 per cent) and apparel manufacturing (38 per cent).

Market In Drop After Thieu Talk

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market moved lower today as investors sold stocks following South Vietnam's President Thieu's remarks indicating his government could not accept a Communist coalition or unsupervised ceasefire.

Declines led advances, 732 to 447, among the 1,569 issues on the tape. The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 6,200,000 shares compared to 7,540,000 shares for the same period on Monday.

Many investors returning to action after the semi-holiday Veteran's Day Monday placed buy orders early, sending the market higher at the opening. However, early in the session reports indicated President Thieu in a speech in South Vietnam denied his government would accept a coalition with the Communists. The market subsequently went lower.

Boise Cascade led the most actives in the Big Board. The issue was unchanged at 13 on 99,100 shares. The company last week reported sharply higher earnings and an improvement of its cash position.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were lower in moderate trading.

New Tiburon Supermarket To Have Grand Opening In November

Newly opened Boardwalk Supermarket (formerly Embee Markets) in Tiburon will hold its grand opening during the week of Nov. 6 under new management.

Two husband-and-wife teams are owner-operators of the newly remodeled market that opened Friday. They are Val and Alice Litton of Corte Madera and Robert and Dale Satake of Tiburon. Litton and Satake previously held management positions with the Co-op Store. Litton has more than 20 years of experience and Satake about 15 years of experience in the grocery business.

"We have a wonderful selection of food items with competitive prices," the new owners announced. "We are proud of our new family-owned business."

The Boardwalk Supermarket also has a wide selection of produce, meats, wines and liquors. Ray Kelley of Novato, who was with Embee Markets for about eight years, is in charge of the meat department.

The Boardwalk Supermarket is open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. six days a week, and from 9:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Sundays.

FIREMAN'S FUND Aemrican Insurance Co., which already has 14,000 square feet of offices at the corner of Mitchell Boulevard and Paul Drive in Northgate Industrial Park, has leased another 12,000 square feet about a block away.

George Denney of Grubb and Ellis negotiated the lease of space at 67 Mark Drive. Aout 110 employees will move into the new offices around the first of December.

"We're bursting at the seams," said Richard Diebel, Fireman's Fund public relations director at the San Francisco office.

The offices at Northgate Industrial Park are temporary quarters for Fireman's Fund, which is planning a giant $12 million computer center to be completed in 1974 on 38 acres across Highway 101, at Lucas Valley Road. The computer center, with 300,000 square feet of floor space, will have a staff of about 500 employees. Groundbreaking for the company's nationwide computer center is expected in December or January.

Other leases just negotiated by George Denney include these:

Millions Stricken By Rheumatoid Arthritis

DAVIS — The "arthritis of aging," osteoarthritis, will afflict all of us at some time in our lives if we live long enough. In fact, it is estimated that as longevity increases, more than six million senior citizens will ultimately suffer from the disease.

Rheumatoid arthritis, on the other hand, is no respector of age. It can strike a middle-aged mother, a teen-ager or a toddler of 2 just learning to walk. It is an insidious disease which affects some four million people in the United States today, approximately 10 per cent of whom formerly would have looked forward to a wheelchair existence.

Both forms of arthritis can be severely debilitating. Many arthritic patients are unable to function normally because of severe pain and restricted motion in their weight bearing joints — particularly the lower back, hips and knees.

Veronica Helene Gomes is well aware of both the physical and mental pain of rheumatoid arthritis. When she was first confined to a wheelchair, she was only 24 years old. And it was 28 years later before she was again able to walk by herself.

"On my parents' 54th wedding anniversary," she said, "I gave them the greatest present they could have ever wished for. I walked for them. It had been 28 years since they last saw me walk by myself."

Veronica was not a robust child. She remembers being ill quite a lot during her teen-age years. When she reflects on her early years, she says the symptoms of arthritis — the pain and the difficulty in moving — were already evident before she was married.

"By the time my only child, Evelyn, was 2 years old," she said, "I could no longer take care of myself.

"For years my mother took care of me, and as my own daughter grew up, she assumed Mother's duties and, in effect, became my 'mother.'"

When Veronica first came to the Sacramento Medical Center for treatment, she was severely limited in her ability to move. She could not comb her hair, she required help in her toilet care, and she could only feed herself with considerable effort.

She also took large amounts of medication to ease her pain. By her own count, her daily intake included "12" buffered aspirin tablets, 4 anti-inflammatory capsules, a hormone pill, a nerve pill, a pill for urinary problems and varying amounts of a 'pain' pill."

Today — a little less than 18 months after she was first admitted to the medical center — Veronica Gomes is able to walk by herself and she no longer takes any medication for arthritis. The "worn out" joints in her hands and hips have been replaced and her defective knee joints have been fused.

"I will never forget the first steps I took in my own backyard," she said. "The grass was so cool and soft under my feet. I had almost forgotten how good it feels.

"And then there was the first time I was able to climb stairs alone. My young nephew was standing at the bottom of the staircase and I could see his excitement and almost feel how proud he was as I slowly ascended.

"I always knew that someday I would walk again," she said, "and I am most grateful for the care I received from the physicians and staff of the University of California, Davis, School of Medicine.

During the past few years, it has been demonstrated that many patients like Veronica Gomes, who have severe arthritis, can be greatly helped by orthopaedic surgical procedures. According to Dr. Robert D. D'Ambrosia, assistant professor of orthopaedic surgery at the Davis school of medicine, the surgeon who operated on Veronica:

"Total replacement of the hip and knee joints with artificial joints that are "cemented" into position can be expected to relieve pain and restore a useful range of motion for more than 95 per cent of all arthritic patients. And because of the improved techniques of modern anesthesia, advancing age is no longer a contra-indication to such surgery."

D'Ambrosia added, "At present, our facilities permit only a limited number of such patients in Northern California to receive the kind of treatment we are capable of providing" because of limited space for facilities necessary for the treatment.

"There are funds in Proposition 2 on the Nov. 7 ballot that could make this space a reality," D'Ambrosia said.

Spy For Russia Leaves Prison

MAIDSTONE, England (UPI) —William Vassall, jailed in 1962 on charges of passing secrets to the Soviet Union while a civil servant in the British Admiralty, left prison today on parole.

Vassall, 48, shielded his face with a newspaper as he climbed into a white sedan, which then sped away from the prison where he has spent the last decade. Vassall agreed to work for the Russians, authorities said, after an incident in 1955 in which he was tricked into "certain compromising sexual acts" while visiting Moscow, then photographed.

Vassall was working in the Naval Attache's office at the British Embassy in Moscow at the time.

Youth Arrested On Gun Charge

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (UPI—A young man with what police described as "an inoperable" shotgun in the trunk of his car was arrested Monday about half an hour before President Nixon's motorcade passed one block away.

Police said that an annonymous tipster had called to say Gene Farrell, 19, of New Rochelle, had a gun and was threatening to shoot Nixon.

Farrell was arrested on the grounds of Iona College. He was charged with possession of a dangerous weapon.

Another Cobra In Air Cargo

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Trans World Airline employes found a third deadly cobra Monday night at their cargo terminal in San Francisco. And there may be more.

The first king cobra was found Saturday while a shipment of flowers from Bangkok, Thailand, was being unloaded at Los Angeles International Airport.

Realizing that cobras often travel in pairs, the line searched again when the plane reached San Francisco later that night and, sure enough, there was another cobra.

The third was found slithering in the terminal about 24 hours later and seemed in better physical condition than the first two who were near death.

COMPROMISE DIFFICULT TO FIND

The Options For Ulster Survival

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Down in the Shankill, one of Belfast's Protestant strongholds, and in the Falls, a Roman Catholic ghetto, 'solutions' to Ulster's agony tend to be simple — and starkly antagonistic. A compromise to end the bitter strife is more difficult to find. It has eluded politicians for centuries. But amid the welter of today's destruction they are trying again.)

By PETER C. STUART
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — "All I want," says a young Roman Catholic lorry driver in the cramped sitting room of his rowhouse in Belfast's Lower Falls, "is to go out and do a day's work."

A few blocks away — but miles away ideologically — a gray-haired Protestant woman sweeping the sidewalk in front of her home near the Shankill Road expresses a similar hope.

"I'd like to be able to go to sleep at night," she says, "and be sure I'd wake up in the morning."

The search for an end to the strife is an everyday preoccupation in Northern Ireland. And never more so than now.

Proposed "solutions" are fluttering upon Ulster like autumn leaves upon the meandering River Lagan. They appear as 90-pence paperbook books, mimeographed political party platforms, glossy pamphlets, smudgy handbills.

Some plans sound as simple as the sentiments voiced in the Falls and the Shankill. Others carry grandiose names: unilateral declaration of independence, condominium, Eire Nua (Gaelic for New Ireland).

With this bulging sheaf of proposals, Northern Ireland enters a period of intensified political activity — a period perhaps crucial to its future.

During the next five months Ulster will elect local officials (Dec. 6), vote on Irish unity, and learn whether Britain will renew its one-year direct rule which expires in March.

As the alternative "solutions" are sorted and sifted on either side of the Irish Sea, a spectrum of four broad options emerges:

1. Total unity with Britain.

Northern Ireland might choose to switch from a sort of "privileged stepchild" to an inner member of the United Kingdom family. This would mean surrendering the trappings of its special status — the U.K.'s only written constitution and regional Parliament. Ulster would become another Scotland or Wales.

"We are unionists," declares Rev. Ian Paisley, chief spokesman for this right-wing Protestant view. "That flag (pointing to the Union Jack) is the flag we were born under, and, please God, we'll die under it . . . We in Ulster stand with Scotland, England and Wales."

Himself a member of the United Kingdom Parliament in London, he would not mourn the loss of the now-suspended Ulster Parliament. "They," he says of those who ran it, "didn't tend it when we had it."

But total integration, so far, is rejected by most of Paisley's Protestant loyalist colleagues.

The Ulster party leaders who met with British proconsul William Whitelaw last month at Darlington, England (a gathering which the Paisleyite Democratic Unionist Party boycotted), decline to tamper with the province's constitutional status "so long as the majority so desires."

Dark-glasses-and-khaki-jacket loyalists, such as from the rambunctious Ulster Defense Assocaition (UDA), recoil from closer ties with London out of a sense of British "betrayal."

2. Local assembly, British rule.

The "solution" offering the least change —and hence, perhaps, the greatest political appeal in some Prostestant quarters —is for Northern Ireland to keep its Union Jack, Constitution and Parliament, with certain refinements.

"It is absolutely clear," argues Ulster's predominant Unionist Party, "that if Northern Ireland were governed entirely from London a significant minority of the population would remain totally opposed to the administration. It is equally clear that if government were centered in Dublin a majority of the citizens of the province would owe the administration no allegiance."

— A bill of rights.

— A joint council embracing the two divisions of Ireland to discuss mutual affairs with the Irish Republic.

But how much leash to give a new Ulster assembly is entangled in disagreement. The Unionists, who controlled the old legislature throughout its 50-year history, want a mini-Parliament empowered to set provincial policies and — most of all — to control the police.

Moderates, such as the new Alliance Party, prefer a glorified version of the Greater London Council which would administer rather than legislate. Except for housekeeping functions like education, housing, and welfare, lawmaking would be left to Britain.

This sort of watered-down assembly is believed currently favored by Whitelaw and his fellow Ulster-watchers in London.

PRACTICE — A member of the Irish Republican Army is intent on the target during a pistol practice session in Londonderry. (Christian Science Monitor photo)

3. Local assembly, British/Irish rule —

The tug-of-war over Northern Ireland between Britain and the Irish Republic might be settled by sharing its sovereignty between them. This joint rule would lay the groundwork for a new, united Ireland.

Ulster's sectarian origins and violent traditions make it "inherently unstable" contends the province's leading political opposition, the Social Democratic and Labor Party (SDLP).

"It would be in the best interests of all sections of the community," it concludes, "if Ireland were to become united on terms acceptable to all the people of Ireland."

Meanwhile, a split-nationality Uster would be governed by a British-Irish treaty (divvying up responsibility for foreign affairs, finances and security) and a two-branch assembly (a local legislature and a national senate to prepare for unification).

Such a plan of phased unification obviously attracts many republicans. But it also wins a hint of approval from the leaderof Britain's opposition Labor Party, former Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who now urges "common action to consider the implications of a move to a united Ireland based on consent."

4. Unity with Irish Republic —

The divided island of Ireland might be immediately reunited, as it was before 1920 — but this time under the authority of Dublin instead of London.

To make the shift palatable to Ulster, the republic presumably would have to offer concessions. The republic's social servica spending — only half the per capita level in the North — would have to be increased.

And the Catholic Church's constitutionally enshrined "special position" would have to be dropped. A referendum to do so is under discussion.

Ironically, this brand of hardline republicanism is trumpeted by the illegal Irish Republican Army (IRA) and one of Ulster's splinter parties (Republican Labor) — but not by the Irish Republic's government. Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch, plagued by IRA troubles of his own, endorses the SDLP's gradualist approach.

Officials in both Dublin and London are known to share a feeling that IRA violence has delayed any eventual Irish reunification, as one puts it, "for at least a generation."

People on both sides of Belfast's "peace line" increasingly seem to agree. Two young fathers — one a Protestant UDA leader, the other an "official" wing IRA sympathizer — concede as much, in almost identical language.

"United Ireland? We won't see it in my lifetime," says the Protestant.

"I'll never see unification," echoes the Catholic, in another part of town. "But my daughter (1 year old) might."

At the fringes of these four major, long-term options for Northern Ireland cluster a myriad of more marginal proposals. One is separate nationhood for Ulster.

"The only remaining solution," asserts a booklet issued by the right-wing Ulster Vanguard, "is an independent Ulster linked to Great Britain and the other member states of the Commonwealth by a common allegiance to the Crown."

Vanguard suggests, off and on, accomplishing this by a "unilateral declaration of independence" — as did the apartheid government of Rhodesia in 1965. A less radical approach might be by negotiation, involving Britain's 200 million pounds (about $500 million) in annual aid to Ulster.

This, then, is the spectrum options. In the Falls and the Shankill, and in numerous new housing estates, the battered people of Ulster await the choice.

Most Dogs In Tokyo Have Polluted Lungs

TOKYO (UPI)—The air in Tokyo is so polluted, a medical researcher said today, that most dogs have black lungs.

Dr. Kazuo Takemoto said autopsies performed on 2,000 stray dogs showed four of every five had black lungs—an indication of heavy pollution— and five were suffering from lung cancer.

Electric Bill Half-Payment Refused Before Fatal Fire

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A survivor of a fire apparently caused by candles says a request to allow half-payment of an overdue $28 electricity bill was refused the day before the blaze roared through a house and killed six children.

Yvonne Parker, who was in the house when the fire started early last Saturday, said she asked a Sacramento Municipal Utility District (SMUD) worker if it "would be all right to pay half of it (the bill) to keep the electricity on.

"He said we'd have to pay all of it. He said, 'I'm sorry, there's nothing I can do," Miss Parker said Monday.

A SMUD spokesman said it was the firm's policy "that we don't take partial payments in the field and our men are not allowed to take them.

"If they had called us and got in touch with our people, we would have made some arrangements," the spokesman said.

Miss Parker, her-month-old daughter and a companion, Clyde Parker were in a downstairs bedroom and escaped when the blaze broke out. Six brothers and sisters, all children of Mrs. Shirley Owen, owner of the home, were killed when the flames swept up a stairway and into a bedroom where they were sleeping.

Mrs. Owen was at a pool tournament when the fire started.
